Tax classification hearing heats up selectmen's meeting

By Don Staruk

The discussion was a bit heated as some residents became emotional during the discussion of property values and the tax rate at the annual tax classification hearing Monday night, Nov. 15, at town offices on Bartlet Street.

Insinuations that the debate on the classification shift was a residents-versus-businesses battle, and differing opinions on what tax rate would be truly "equitable," caused at least two long-time acquaintances to have a falling-out in public.

Stephen Milmo follows Amy Duarte to Carolinas for bone-marrow transplant

By Don Staruk

"Telephone."
"Who is it?"
"Kim Basinger."

How many ninth-grade boys would like to get that message from that movie star? Well, Stephen Milmo, 15, of 1 Landau Lane, got exactly that message two weeks ago.

"She called Stephen last night just to see how he's doing," Alexandra Milmo, Stephen's Mom, said Friday, Nov. 5.

Stephen, a freshman at Andover High School, met and performed with Ms. Basinger in September at the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang Camp, a retreat in Connecticut for kids with cancer. Paul Newman founded the camp.

Stephen suffers from medulloblastoma, a malignant brain tumor. He was first diagnosed in 1990, underwent surgery and chemotherapy, and was on the road to recovery when the cancer resurfaced last spring. He has been going through chemotherapy again for the last several months and left for Duke University in North Carolina yesterday, Wednesday, for an autologous bone-marrow-rescue operation, which will be performed the first week in December.

AHS deals with weapons, discipline

By Don Staruk

At least four more Andover students face expulsion and possible criminal charges this week following a series of incidents at Andover High School during the past two weeks involving weapons, thefts and trespassing.

One student was caught with a starter's gun at the school on Friday, Nov. 5. That student was expelled in accordance with the provisions of the Education Reform Act of 1993, which allows principals to expel students for possession of drugs or weapons.

An investigation of the starter's-gun incident led to two more students being expelled last Tuesday, Nov. 9.

During the investigation, it was discovered that a second student had a .22-caliber rifle, disassembled in parts, in the school in late September, according to Timothy Thomas, High School principal. The gun,

What this area has to say about NAFTA

By Neil Fater

The North American Free Trade Agreement has been one of the most breathlessly awaited trade votes in generations. Congress was expected to vote on NAFTA after the Townsmen went to press Wednesday.

In recent weeks, a growing number of voices have said that the economic and political winds of change many have linked to the passage or rejection of NAFTA will be more breeze than gale. Simply put,

Town, school maintenance accounts appear to be mixed together

By Neil Fater

Andover schools appear to be spending a gross amount of money on maintenance, according to information presented by Lloyd Willey at Tuesday night's School Committee meeting. But the reason appears to be because the schools are charged, at least on paper, for what are really town maintenance costs.

"Results were all consistent. It would appear that Andover's costs are significantly out of line," according to the document presented by Mr. Willey, head of the schools' ad hoc committee for finance.

Local man ran NY marathon with handicapped woman

By Don Staruk

Michael Frishman planned to walk most of the New York City Marathon last Sunday, Nov. 14, but ended up running it instead.

Mr. Frishman, 50, of 230 Andover St. and a former Andover School Committee member, took part in the event as an escort for a member of the Achilles Track Club, a group of physically-challenged runners.

"I ran with a woman, 70-year-old woman with arthritic feet," Mr. Frishman said.

He carried an extra pair of shoes for her.

The 26.2 miles took six and a half hours last year when he ran with the same woman, and she was supposedly in worse shape this year, so Mr. Frishman didn't worry about training to get in shape. He figured he would be at a walking pace most of the way.

"This year she sandbagged me," Mr. Frishman said Monday.

The pair was ahead of last year's time the whole distance and finished in five hours and 53 minutes.

"So this 70-year-old woman took 40 minutes off her time from last year," Mr. Frishman said.

The 13:30-per-mile pace was just a bit too fast to walk, and Mr. Frishman ended up running almost the whole way.

Mr. Frishman, an information officer for toxic use reduction for the Massachusetts Executive Office of Environmental Affairs, lived in New York from 1960-1981. He has run 14 marathons, including a 2:58 in the Jersey Michael Frishman of Andover and Juanita Gold of Summit, N.J., finish the 1992 NYC marathon. The two ran together again Sunday, Nov. 14, finishing in five hours and 53 minutes.

Rec Park needs volunteers to freeze court

The Rec Park multi-purpose court will be used again this winter for ice skating.

Adult volunteers are needed to help freeze the ice. The more volunteers, the better the ice quality, according to Peg Campbell of the Department of Community Services.

The time commitment is not large, according to Ms. Campbell.

Library closes early Nov. 24

Memorial Hall Library will close at 5 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 24, the day before Thanksgiving.

Rep. Coon to hold hours here

State Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, will hold local office hours Monday, Nov. 29. He will be at Memorial Hall Library from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Early deadlines for Thanksgiving

Thanksgiving day is Thursday, Nov. 25, a week from today.

The Townsmen will publish a day early, Wednesday, Nov. 24. Therefore, deadlines are early.

News and advertising are due tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 19, at noon. The deadline for classified advertising is Monday at noon.

He will be available to answer questions and discuss issues with constituents. No appointment is necessary.

For further information, call Rep. Coon's office in Boston at 617-722-2489.

TIP seeks volunteers

The Trauma Intervention Program (TIP) is seeking citizen volunteers for its crisis intervention program. Volunteers will be trained to help citizens in distress as a result of having been the victims of a crime or other traumatic event.

Volunteers are called to the scene by a police officer or firefighter to assist citizens who are despondent, victims of burglary and robbery, family members of suicide or sudden death, family disputes, disoriented older persons and other crisis situations.

Jane Thompson, the local Trauma Intervention Program coordinator, said no prior experience is required to be a volunteer.

Call Ms. Thompson at 685-9831.

Seeking Christmas stories and traditions

The Townsmen wants to hear about readers' most memorable Christmas or Hanukkah experiences. Those who want to share holiday experiences should write about them by Friday, Nov. 26, in 200 words or less and send them to the Townsmen, 33 Chestnut St., or fax it to 470-2819.

Answers will be printed in one of the three Holiday Catalog special sections that will be published Dec. 2, 9 and 16.

Another kind of story

In addition, the paper is looking for the names of people from other countries who live in Andover and would share news of what they do during the holidays.

People from other countries who would be willing to be interviewed about how they celebrate the holidays can call Perry Colmore at 475-1943.

Vocal artist Joe Williams performs in Andover Saturday

By Neil Fater

Vocalist Joe Williams and the internationally renowned Count Basie Orchestra will serve their eight-course musical meal this Saturday, Nov. 20, at the Ramada Hotel Rolling Green in Andover.

The show will be part of a major charity fundraising event, with all proceeds going to the Barry L. Price Rehabilitation Center in Newton. A pre-concert buffet, which will include numerous dishes, champagne, caviar, cocktails, coffees and desserts, will be an attempt to create the dining equivalent to Mr. Williams and the orchestra's wide range of talents.

Though most commonly referred to as a jazz vocalist, Joe Williams' range is as deep and full as his speaking voice. He is a sultan of swing, a uniquely smooth and sophisticated barker of blues and a crooner of ballads almost beyond compare. In sum, he is one of popular music's prize pupils.

Now in his mid-70s, Mr. Williams and his beautiful baritone continue to grace popular music's landscape. Still taking to the road to perform, as well as the studio to record, he says that one can expect a little of everything in each of his performances.

"You have to have variety in your presentation," Mr. Williams said in a phone interview from Chicago. "If you don't become bored then neither will your audience. And life is a variety anyway."

Or, at least Mr. Williams' life has been full of variety.

Born in the deep south and heat of Georgia, Mr. Williams grew up in the blues hotbed of Chicago. He began his career in nightclubs, "singing for dancing, really," he says now, and was working with band leaders Johnny Long, Erskine Tate and radio-renowned Jimmy Noone before long. However, as Mr. Williams' star began to rise, the dance hall lights began to go out. It is a time, because of the warmth and closeness he could inspire in an audience, that he misses a great deal.

"There's an intimacy about singing when someone is holding someone else in their arms," he said. "Which is why schools have proms."

"Now (audiences) sit and hold hands in the concert hall."

Yet, while he performed less for dancing crowds as his career advanced, his connections with band leaders such as Coleman Hawkins, Lionel Hampton and Count Basie let his music be heard by a greater number of fans. Today, his star has stopped rising and is fixed in place - on the Holly-done (New York) with a handicapped runner," he said.

The first time was in the early '80s when he ran with a Mexican man who was an above-the-knee amputee on crutches. They made it halfway in 13 hours and Mr. Frishman put the man into a cab and brought him back to his hotel room. Mr. Frishman then returned to the end of the race and "pulled a Rosie" (Ruiz), jumping in and finishing so he could get a medal, which he then brought back to the man with whom he had run.

For all that effort, the amputee at least deserved a medal. Mr. Frishman figured.

A year or two later he ran with a tall, "extremely handsome," 23-year-old Jamaican man, also an above-the-knee amputee. Every time the man stopped, women would run out from the crowds to help him.

"He didn't need my help at all," Mr. Frishman said.

The pair finished in seven hours.

This year and last year he was paired with Juanita Goldman, a 70-year-old retired special-education teacher from Summit, N.J. Despite his aches on Monday, Mr. Frishman said he had fun.

"Yesterday was one of those days when every New Yorker was proud to be a New Yorker," Mr. Frishman said.

Even people on the subway talked to him, Mr. Frishman said.

Now he and Ms. Goldman are considering running the Boston Marathon, he said.

"We talked about it. We'll see what happens this year."

In Andover, the score is Beavers 3, Human Beings, 0

By Alix Driscoll

What's the latest with the beavers in Andover?

"It's beavers 3 and humans 0," according to Robert Pustell, chairman of the Conservation Commission.

Here's the problem: Beavers build dams, people's property floods, people destroy the beavers' dams, the beavers rebuild them. Also, beavers eat expensive, young trees.

"They're constantly rebuilding. They have dammed up the water at Husseys Pond and have a habit of eating the tender shoots of young and often valuable ornamental trees," said Mr. Pustell.

When a hole was punched in their dam recently, the beavers repaired it expeditiously.

"In less than a day they got their dam up and running," Mr. Pustell explained.

That was several weeks ago.

So, what's coming

'We have lowered the water level and anxiety level.'

down the pipeline for the Andover beavers? Last Sunday, Not much water, Judith Chupasko, a mammalogist at Harvard University Museum of Comparative Zoology, Mark Curtin, professional civil engineer, both members of Conservation Commission, and Jim Grier, conservation administrator, rebuilt the damaged duct work installed several years ago, took apart a section of the secondary dam, and put in perforated pipes on the south side of Hussey Brook off Ice-land Road. Then they unplugged the conduit under the road. The beavers had choked it with debris. The primary dam and lodge are further to the west and were not disturbed.

This required much planning. The Conservation Commission approved the structure several weeks ago and the town received permission from the state Division of Fisheries and Wildlife to install the pipe system.

The perforated pipe system confuses these nocturnal mammals, which are skilled in hydraulic engineering.

"We're trying to fool them by building a complicated (structure) of several pipes surrounded by reinforcing mesh and heavy wire. Beavers don't sense the flow of water," said Mr. Pustell. This lowers the water level, and the lessening of the sound of running water keeps the beavers from rebuilding with renewed zeal.

The original dam should have been left alone in the first place, say conservationists. That would have kept the beaver from constantly rebuilding. Neighbors who took apart sections of the dam did not help matters, said Ms. Chupasko.

At the same time, a licensed trapper employed by neighbors captured several beavers, leaving two or three remaining at the site.

"It is the responsible thing to do to harvest the surplus animals. This is what the land can handle," said Ms. Chupasko. She noted at least two had been killed recently by the car traffic in the area. They can't be moved because it is illegal in this state to relocate beavers.

The Hussey Brook and marsh area is particularly rich in wildlife, she said. There are mink, otter, muskrat, great blue heron and, of course, the beaver. These animals may be seen mainly at dawn and dusk.

"We have no objection to the beaver living here, but there are two concerns - flooding and tree damage, said Mr. Pustell.

"We have lowered the water level and the anxiety level," said Ms. Chupasko.

compost site on Bald Hill off High Plain Road, according to Mr. Pustell. The facility, which began in 1991 on conservation land, is open to Andover residents to drop off leaves, grass clippings and shredded yard waste on Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays from 8 a.m.-4 p.m. through Dec. 4. Finished compost is available to residents.

Two more years amnesty on docks

Mr. Pustell said the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection has extended the amnesty for Chapter 91. That means homeowners have until Oct. 4, 1995 to register their rafts, docks and wharfs

"Everyone has ignored this issue," he said.

That's two more years to bypass a law that has been required since the 1800s.

Trails and volunteer activities

"Promoting the Andover Trails Committee is a major activity of the Conservation Commission," said Mr. Pustell.

He praised Liz Tentarelli and her committee members who are actively working to establish a greenbelt along the Shawsheen River.

In planning for the greenbelt, overseers take responsibility for specific town-owned parcels similar to the wardens of AVIS properties.

Other business

The Conservation

Commission has given permission to Ironstone Farm to construct a roof over its horseback ring on Lowell Street.

In other ConsCom news, Mr. Pustell said the commission is working in a minor way on town walking trails connecting neighborhoods.

He spoke about the need to do planning far into the future for the Conservation Commission.

"We would like some time to work on philosophy," said Mr. Pustell.

BUSINESS

Business people are making the news

Peter Calkins

Forest City Management Inc. has announced the appointment of Peter Calkins as asset manager for University Park at MIT, a leading biotech and high technology research park in Cambridge.

Peter Calkins

Mr. Calkins will be responsible for all existing properties at the park, including the Jackson, Clark and Richards buildings. He will develop a strategic plan for enhancing the services that Forest City Management provides for tenants and will coordinate leasing, administration, operations and tenant construction activities.

In addition, Mr. Calkins will assist Forest City Development with the design and development of future buildings at the park. Upon completion, University Park will comprise more than 1.5 million square feet of research laboratory, office and manufacturing space, a hotel and conference center, retail facilities, garage parking and seven acres of landscaped parks and open space.

Prior to joining Forest City, Mr. Calkins was general manager for Dobroth & Fryer in Lowell and has also served as vice president of Cardinal Properties Inc. The licensed architect and real estate broker earned his master of architecture at Harvard University and bachelor of arts at Washington University in St. Louis. Mr. Calkins is an active member of NAIOP, the Association for Commercial Real Estate, currently serving as vice president for public affairs for the Massachusetts chapter. He lives in Andover with his wife, Lilith, and three children.

James Fox

Gov. William Weld has appointed James Fox of Andover to the Investment Advisory Council. The council has broad advisory powers to assist the state treasurer with recommendations for investments policies and in the hiring of professional investment advisors.

Mr. Fox is a senior vice president of Dunhill Equities, a correspondent firm of Morgan Stanley. He has 30 years experience within the security industry in Massachusetts.

Katherine Koh

Katherine Koh of 3 Appletree Lane recently was promoted to associate director of Cambridge Technology Partners. Cambridge Technology Partners is a leading computer consulting firm that offers a suite of professional services focusing on the rapid development and implementation of strategic business solutions based on open systems, client/server computer technology.

Ms. Koh started working with CTP in 1989 in the main office in Cambridge. She is currently working out of the Los Angeles office where she is managing a major system development project.

Ms. Koh graduated from Wellesley College in 1988.

Danette Morris

Danette Morris of Andover was one of 15 faculty members recently honored for teaching excellence by Northeastern University's Center for Continuing Education at a Faculty and Industry Awards Dinner at the Westin Waltham. Ms. Morris, a software language instructor for the center's State-of-the-Art Program since 1991, was selected by students and colleagues for the "Outstanding Faculty" award.

Northeastern's Center for Continuing Education is New England's largest provider of non-credit professional development programs.

Ms. Morris is an independent consultant specializing in computer training and course development and an instructor for Prime Computer/ComputerVision and other leading technology companies. She has developed new course material for the State-of-the-art Program and was an on-site corporate trainer for the center.

The Center for Continuing Education offers non-credit professional development programs at 12 satellite campuses throughout Massachusetts.

Danette Morris

Barton L. Munro Jr. of Andover was recently promoted to the position of vice president and general manager of Unico Service Company's newly-formed Schools and Colleges Division.

Headquartered in Boston, the Schools and Colleges Division services education institutions throughout the country.

Mr. Munro will have profit and loss responsibility for this division and will direct all management activities including operations and sales functions. He has been vice president of sales and marketing since 1990.

David R. Froelke, president and COO of Unico says, "Bart was the natural choice to head this new division. He has been instrumental in expanding our accounts in the education market to the point where we needed to form a separate business unit to better serve the needs of these unique customers. He has a keen understanding of the maintenance requirements of schools and colleges and is committed to delivering the highest possible level of service to them."

Mr. Munro received a bachelor of science degree in general engineering from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and an MBA from Boston University. He is an active member of leading industry associations such as BOMA, IFMA, NACUBO and APPA and is a supporter of the Boys and Girls Club of Derry, N.H.

ANDOVER HIGH STAGING NEW PRODUCTION

Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon is the Andover High School Drama Guild's latest production to hit the stage at the Collins Center. It plays this weekend, beginning tomorrow night at 8. Todd Amundsen, playing the role of Dr. Kirkland, seems dwarfed by a stage "tree."

In the play, which has been adapted from the novel by Marjorie Kellogg, Junie Moon's face is disfigured by acid. Sarah Hamilton, who plays the double-cast role of Junie tomorrow night and Sunday, has her make-up applied by Jean Pendergrass, head librarian at AHS.

Photos by Lisa Adelsberger
Sidney Wyner, played by Jon Weiner, is the nosy next-door neighbor, dressing the part in rehearsal.

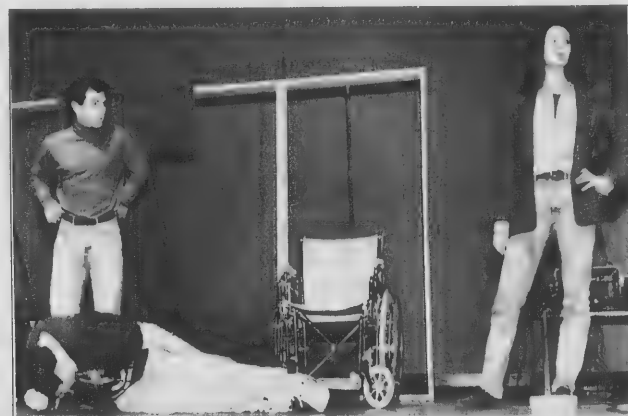

Production staff member Jessica Perkins follows along with the script, supplying the correct lines in rehearsal when necessary. She is one of eight members of the stage crew.

Relaxing after practice are Bridget Mason, who plays the role of Junie Moon in Saturday night's performance, and Josh Marmer, who plays Arthur. Todd Buonopane, who plays Warren, supports both of them.

◀ Warren, played by Todd Buonopane, is a paraplegic who loves beautiful people and beautiful things. Here Warren is ordered to stand by his beautiful but sadistic friend, Gregory (played by Melissa Mahon).

Warren falls because of his disability, which Gregory finds annoying. Arthur, played by Josh Marmer, runs to his friend's assistance and regards Gregory's lack of compassion. The show is directed by Robert Lague, assisted by W. Douglas Halsted III and Scott Worthley.

AHS Marching Band does it again, brings home the gold

By Carol Viola

Andover High School PAC

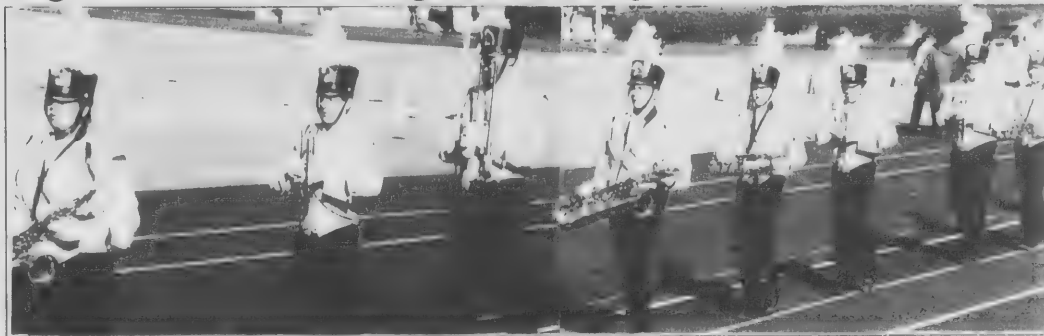

The final New England Scholastic Band Association (NESBA) competition for the season for the Andover High School Marching Band ended on a high note at Boston University's Nickerson Stadium Sunday, Nov. 7.

With a score of 90.3 (out of 100), higher than any of the other 13 bands competing from Divisions I and II, the band won a gold medal.

The three previous competitions this fall saw a steady rise in their performance of "Passage to the East." This show was "truly exciting," said one freshman parent after seeing the performance with the color guard's flags swirling on the field. Andover came in first in its division and also won best color guard and best percussion.

East Bridgewater was the closest competitor in the division. Dedham High School came in third.

Overall, 27 high school bands from Maine, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, each ranging in size from 27 to more than 128 performers, played music from Hook, Fiddler on the Roof, Star Trek, Man of La Mancha, the Beatles, John Williams, Bela Bartok and the New World Symphony, to name a few.

In addition to promoting performance and stimulating music interest and appreciation, NESBA's purpose is to arouse and maintain interest in various phases of music and music education in secondary schools.

There was plenty of enthusiastic interest from the Andover crowd. Blue and gold balloons, donated by Ronnie Pisco, mother of percussionist Ben Weiner, were launched as the band passed in review.

This year NESBA has expanded its music scholarship program to include the color guard or band front members and other students who will be non-music majors and have played an important role in their school's band program.

In addition to the awards, one of the highlights of the band banquet is the varsity letter new members receive to wear on their band jackets.

After 10 weeks of working intensively with the kids, new band director Mark Repucci said, "I'm extremely proud of their accomplishment, teamwork, discipline and at the same time, they're having a creative musical experience."

The musicians and color guard have a band staff who spent hours designing the program and working on timing, choreography, music and the general flow of the show: Ken Gable (an AHS graduate), Jim Wedge, Peter Furnari, Robert Mulvanity, Mark Kelly, Joe McFarland, Rich Rigolini, Amy Grelle and Billy Jurberg.

For some students, this show culminates a season filled with hours of practice, drills, a few lows and some incredible highs.

Many go on to continue their year in the high school concert band and the jazz band, both conducted by Mr. Reppucci.

The marching band members entertained at the high school Powder Puff football game last Saturday, and will play at the Thanksgiving morning game Nov. 25, as the Andover High varsity football team wraps up its 1993 season against traditional rival Central Catholic.

The game kicks off at 10 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium in Lawrence.

The band will also march downtown Sunday, Nov. 28, in the Andover Firefighters Christmas Parade.

Storyteller Rob Taylor teaches South students about respect

South School PTO

The children at South Elementary School were treated Wednesday, Nov. 3, to a presentation by Rob Taylor, author, storyteller and mountain climber. Mr. Taylor uses his experiences from Mt. Kilimanjaro and Tanzania, detailed in his book, The Breach, to depict and discuss numerous themes.

Slides of the mountain and Africa's Rift Valley introduced the children to the geography and ecology of the area. Demonstrating climbing equipment, he fascinated his audience with tales of the complexity of climbing ice- and snow-covered mountains.

Mr. Taylor also interwove information about the area's land and people with more subtle lessons about trust, the qualities of a true friend, and the vast potential within each of us. One of his most important messages impressed the children with the necessity of respecting the land and its plants and animals. Though he had many opportunities to collect rare plants and other specimens, he was careful to take nothing but his experiences and leave nothing but his impressions - which he shared with the students.

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

Pamela Lebowitz

IS OWNER'S TITLE INSURANCE A GOOD IDEA?

If you finance your home, your lender will require you to purchase title insurance for the amount of your mortgage, and you will be given the option of increasing the coverage to include your equity in the property. Most experts agree that the additional coverage is a good idea.

Before your sale is finalized, the settlement attorneys will inspect the public records and ensure that the sellers really do own the property. They will also look for any liens that may have been filed against it and must be paid off before the property can be sold to you. Even the most careful search, however, cannot guarantee that at some point during the chain of ownership there was not fraud or error involved in one of the transfers of title. The owner's coverage fee is a one time charge that protects your equity in your new home, including a large percentage of its appreciated value. It is one of those things you will probably never need, but if you do, you will be very glad that you have it.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate specialists at Century 21 Carriage House are ready to serve you. Feel free to visit our office at 10 High Street, or phone us at 475-1243.

American Education Week celebrated at West Middle School

West Middle School is celebrating American Education Week (Nov. 14-20) with educational activities designed to inform and excite students. The theme for the week is "Better Schools Shape Better Tomorrows" and students are invited to participate in a button-making contest exemplifying that theme.

Several eighth-grade students are recording public service announcements on WCCM. There are also daily trivia questions in school, with prizes for the winner.

Photographs of students and teachers involved in school activities are on display at the post office and students' work are on the bulletin board in the School Committee meeting room.

Each child will be recognized in a reversal of the old "apple for the teacher" adage. Each will receive an apple from their teacher.

Students will also be given an opportunity to work with several aspects of a hands-on science exhibit entitled "Explore and Discover," which is presently based at WMS.

The West Middle School PTO will sponsor a free workshop tonight, Thursday, on homework. The workshop will be conducted by The Huntington Learning Center at West Middle School on Shawsheen Road at 7 p.m. It is designed to assist parents in improving their children's study habits and eliminate the problems that sometimes surround homework time.

National Education Week is this week, Nov. 14-20.

West Middle School has also announced its school council schedule. Its PTO has a workshop tonight for parents about homework.

"Homework: A Parent's Survival Guide" has been presented throughout the Merrimack Valley during the past two years and offers specific guidelines parents can use to structure their children's time and environment to improve homework performance.

West Middle School has formed a school council under the new Massachusetts Education Reform Act.

The meetings for the rest of the year are: December (to be announced, as it is a training session for all town school councils); Jan. 5; Feb.

2; March 2; April 6; May 4; and June 1.

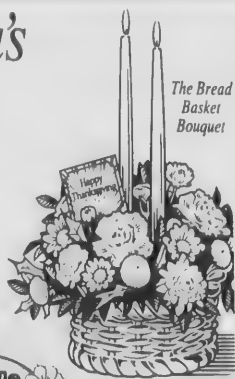

All meetings will start at 7 p.m. in the school's media center.

Anyone wishing to submit an agenda item for any meeting must submit it in writing one week before the school council meeting (by the last Wednesday of the month before the next meeting).

Your Dental HEALTH

CONTROLLING GUM DISEASE WITH ANTIBIOTICS

There is an interesting bit of research which indicates that certain antibiotics may be effective in combating the most common cause of tooth loss in adults, periodontitis (gum disease). According to at least one researcher, periodontitis results from the collagen in the gums and tooth sockets being broken down by an enzyme known as collagenase. As the collagen is destroyed, the tooth sockets' grip on teeth loosens. However, when a form of tetracycline known as doxycycline was given in low doses (20mg. daily for three months) to 75 patients with gum disease as part of a study, collagenase activity dropped significantly and periodontal disease was halted. Dentists and their patients should not be surprised to hear more about this type of research in the future.

Your dentist's recommendations for treatment should always be in your best interests. All dental work, short and long-term care, and the costs of same should be fully explained in advance. If you need dental care and don't have a dentist at this time, we are now accepting new patients here at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133, with easy access off Rt 83. We offer complete family dental care including periodontics, restorative and cosmetic dentistry, and more. Phone: 475-2431. Office hours are Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri 8-6 and by appointment.

PS: Tetracycline's ability to neutralize collagenase activity is separate from its bacteria-killing function.

Understanding Chiropractic

NOT BY EXERCISE ALONE

Those who exercise routinely may believe that flexibility exercises, alone, are all that are necessary for a healthy back. This approach may be effective in working entire sections of the back, but it is not able to target specific spinal joints. It is the isolated joints that are often in need of direct help to eliminate fixations and subluxations (misalignments). By taking a generalized approach, exercisers direct their activity to all the back joints simultaneously. As a result, the problem of a single joint is likely to become aggravated, while adjacent joints bear more of a load by compensating for their problematic neighbors. By evaluating and treating each back joint individually, the chiropractor ensures that all areas of the spine get the attention they need.

Your chiropractor will explain every detail of your care plan before any adjustments begin. We treat only those patients we sincerely feel we can help. Call today. DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. Our office is located at 15 Central Street. We wish you a very joyous Thanksgiving!

P.S. Once the chiropractor puts the spine in good working order, exercise is necessary to help maintain it.

SCHOOLTALK

The following Peer Leaders from Greater Lawrence Technical School will visit local parochial elementary schools to give anti-smoking presentations: Adrian Santana, Dilenia Pita, Naomi Santos, Melissa St. Onge, Jael Adelbot, Steve Riddick, Zoe Bowers, Melissa Cormier and Wanda Oka.

These students are trained and will be accompanied by Joseph Golec, health teacher, and Doris Michaud, math instructor.

Shore Country Day School in Beverly welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Morris and daughter, Meghan (grade 1), of Andover. Shore School is an independent co-educational day school serving 430 students in grades readiness for kindergarten through 9.

"Kid Company," the live WBZ radio program designed for children ages 8-15-plus, is designed to be one of the more exciting radio programs across the nation. Thanks to the initiative of Chris Outwin and Principal Eileen Woods, South School students have become involved in the program. Recently, fifth-graders Mark Outwin, Matt Brenner and Diana Feingold, and fourth-graders Martin Karim and Joe De Fabrizio were on the air live at WBZ-AM radio station discussing what makes their family special. The students answered question from other kids who called the station. This show is broadcast in 37 states. Following the live performance, the South students took a tour of the WBZ radio station, met producer

Aleta Koman hosted the South School segment. Mark Outwin looks forward to becoming a reporter for Kids Company. He would like to interview members of the "The Christmas Revels," a celebration of winter solstice with traditional and ritual dances, carols, professionals and drama playing at Sanders Theatre. Mark is particularly interested in the children's piece.

Tune in to WBZ-AM Radio 1030 on Jan. 8 from 5 to 7 p.m. and you will hear some familiar voices of children from South.

This WBZ connection is an extension of a before-school enrichment program, Audio Production, run by Dr. Outwin. He said, "This is a great experience for students to formulate and express ideas in the oral communication idiom and learn to be critical consumers of

South School will keep this link with WBZ throughout the year, involving as many students as possible.

West Middle School parents attended a PAC meeting Nov. 9 to learn about the dangers of drug and alcohol facing children. William (Scoop)

Crawford from the Freedom from Chemical Dependency Foundation conducted a workshop entitled "Keeping Our Kids OK." Parents were asked to participate in a non-threatening and amusing format with a comfortable pace, encouraging them to ask questions. Mr. Crawford dispelled many myths about drug and alcohol use, illustrating with humor the perceptions children have of parental alcohol use. He also offered concrete strategies in combating substance abuse problems in children before and after they arise.

The workshop's message was that it is never too early to begin the prevention process and parents must learn as much as possible about the ever-changing menu of available drugs.

Taylor Nix, formerly of Central Street, will be featured in "Murder of Innocence," a CBS-TV movie to be aired Nov. 30. The movie, based on a true

Imagine the fun you and your children will have making Scribble Cookies, rainbow toast, or Christmas ornaments. Let their imaginations soar while creating artsy pillowcases or playing jungle safari or treasure hunt. These are just a sampling of the ideas compiled in the newest Mother Connection book, Homespun Fun.

There are more than 220 activities, all donated by local Mother Connection members, out-of-state friends and "even one from Paris and Hong Kong," said one of the editors, "more than 180 contributors in all."

For the past three years volunteers have been soliciting ideas, fund-raising, editing, marketing and designing this book. "This activity book is a 'must have' for any household with children," say the editors, "with chapters such as 'Let's Pretend, Rainy Days, Party Time, and Travel Tips,' you can't go wrong. It's a great gift for the holidays."

Homespun Fun will premiere at the Mother Connection Book Fair on Friday, Nov. 19, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m., and Saturday, Nov. 20, from 9 a.m. to noon at Faith Lutheran Church, 360 S. Main St. Additional books can be purchased by calling the Mother

PaineWebber asks:

Are you settling for 3% on your money... or are you sending for our report?

We know it's confusing for investors today. You're facing some of the lowest short-term interest rates in 30 years, high prices, a slow-growth economy and questions about the future. But standing still only makes you fall behind. And you don't have to accept 3%.

There are many ways today to make your money work harder. PaineWebber explains them in our latest report, Alternative Sources of Income. Ask for your free copy now. Then talk to a PaineWebber Investment Executive about which specific vehicles can best meet your needs and bring you the returns you're looking for.

*CDs are insured and offer fixed rates, whereas investment securities will fluctuate with market and/or interest rate conditions.

Pinocchio performances by Merrimack Junior Theatre are this weekend, Nov. 19-21

Merrimack Junior Theatre will present Pinocchio this weekend, Nov. 19-21, at Doherty Memorial Auditorium.

The performances will be at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 2 p.m. Sunday.

The play is directed by Josie

Walker and produced by Kim Yoshida and Peggy Tonelli.

Tickets for evening performances are $6 for adults and $4 for children and seniors; all tickets on Sunday are $5.

Call the Department of Community Services for tickets.

Local resident performing in The Sound of Music at Turtle Lane Playhouse in Newton

Faran Alexis Krentcil of Andover is one of two girls who will appear as Brigitta, one of the seven Von Trapp children, in Rodgers and Hammerstein's The Sound of Music at the Turtle Lane Playhouse, 283 Melrose St., in Newton. The play, which has been double-cast, runs through Nov. 28.

The Sound of Music is based on the true story of Maria Ranier, a high-spirited postulant who is sent to be governess for the children of a widowed naval captain. Her loving and giving spirit wins over the children and gradually captures the heart of their stern father. The Captain and Maria return from their honeymoon to discover that Austria has been invaded by the Nazis who demand his immediate service in the German navy. The family's narrow escape over the mountains to Switzerland is the inspirational finale.

Faran has appeared in productions of the Merrimack Junior Theatre and is a member of the Confetti Kids, a children's performing group in Andover. She played the title role in Annie at the Playhouse Dinner Theatre in Amesbury.

Performances are Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m., Sunday at 7. Sunday matinees will be held Nov. 21 and 28 at 2 p.m. Seating is reserved. Ticket prices are $15 and $17. Discounted tickets for seniors are $10 on Thursdays and $10 for students on Fridays.

Special holiday week performances open with a 2 p.m. matinee Dec. 26, followed by 8 p.m. performances Dec. 27-30.

All children's tickets are $10 for this week only.

Two local families are performing in Fiddler on the Roof in Wilmington Andover residents Leslee, Ashley and David Steele and Peter, Heather and Meredith White will appear in NRTW's musical production of Fiddler on the Roof.

Young Ashley plays Bielke, the youngest daughter in the family the show revolves around. As Tevye's daughter, she finds herself in the thick of the trials and tribulations the family goes through as their world and traditions change around them. Ashley is a third-grader at West Elementary School. This past fall she performed in NRTW's The Music Man. She has studied for four

Community Theatre to hold auditions for Rumors

Andover Community Theatre will hold auditions for Rumors by Neil Simon, on Monday, Nov. 23, and Wednesday, Dec. 1, from 7 to 10 p.m. at West Elementary School.

The play will be directed by Scott Hilse and produced by Gerald Gregg. The cast consists of five men and five women, who may range in age from mid-20s to late middle-age. Characters will be cast through reading; no monologues are required. Rehearsals will begin in January, and performances are scheduled for the first two weekends in March at Old Town Hall.

Rumors, a farce in two acts, opened in New York in 1988.

The story of mixed intentions and missed communications is replete with Simon's characteristic one-liners. All action takes place at a party in a posh New York suburb. The characters include four wealthy professional couples of varying ages and two police officers.

For more information, call the ACT Hotline at 475-4221.

"A Celebration of Christmas" 1993 fair chairwomen from Christ Church are from left: Lynn Wailes, Connie Rulon-Miller, Laura Hunter and Andy Spang.

Church fair is a proud tradition

The annual Christ Church Christmas Fair is a tradition the church takes pride in. The fair was begun many years ago by women in the church and today includes almost every parishioner in some way. Members bake apple pies, tie bows for wreaths, knit, make handcrafted toys and decorations.

Each year 10 percent of the proceeds from the fair is given to a non-profit organization from outside of the church. This year the fair committee has chosen the Lawrence Boys and Girls Club. The money will enable the club to host a holiday party providing a meal and gift for its most disadvantaged members.

This year's fair, "A Celebration of Christmas," will be held Saturday, Dec. 4, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at Christ Church, 25 Central St.

The chairwomen are Laura Hunter, Connie Rulon-Miller, Andy Spang and Lynn Wailes.

Now celebrating its 10th anniversary It's time to apply for Handsprings Crafts Show

Craftspeople and artisans are invited to apply to Handsprings Arts & Crafts Show, now celebrating its 10th anniversary. The application deadline for 1994 is Jan. 15. Handsprings is a juried show held annually indoors at Phillips Academy. This year's dates are April 23 and 24, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. To receive an application, send a large self-addressed, stamped envelope to Handsprings, Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass. 01810, or call Jennie Cline at 475-6579.

Several sizes of display space are available for approximately 130 craftspeople. Only handcrafted work is accepted. Notification of acceptance will be mailed Feb. 15, 1994.

Celebrate Thanksgiving at free Holiday Open House at 1789 Johnson Cottage

The North Andover Historical Society, 153 Academy Road, North Andover, will hold a Holiday Open House Saturday, Nov. 20, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Thanksgiving was the major family holiday for New Englanders well into the 19th century, long before Christmas became an accepted holiday among the descendants of the Puritan forefathers.

The event will focus on the celebration of Thanksgiving in the society's 1789 Johnson Cottage kitchen, where costumed interpreters will share the food traditions and customs of the past century. Storyteller Paul Fegan of Fegan's Pocket will perform at 11 a.m. and noon in the main building. Admission is free. Refreshments will be based on traditional fare.

'Sharing a New Song' at West Parish Church

"Sharing a New Song Chorus" will give a free public concert of Russian, Estonian and American music Sunday, Nov. 21, at 3 p.m. in West Parish Church. The Newton-based community chorus has made annual tours for the last 10 years to the former Soviet Union to sing with choirs there.

This past summer the chorus participated in a Russian-American festival with 150 Russians and 150 Americans traveling by boat on the Volga River from Moscow to Yaroslavl, stopping in cities along the way to give concerts.

Their program will include Russian choral works, and American and Estonian folksongs. Directed by Marshall Hughes and accompanied by Ellen Polansky, the chorus was one of the highlights of last year's Community Concert Series at West Parish Church.

A reception after the concert will allow everyone to meet the singers.

The "Sharing a New Song" chorus shares applause with Minsk chorus members after a joint concert in Yaroslavl, Russia. The "Sharing a New Song Chorus" will perform at West Parish Church this Sunday at 3 p.m.

Rabbi Jack Stern to speak here

Rabbi Jack Stern, past president of the Central Conference of American Rabbis, the reform national rabbinic organization, will be the Scholar-in-Residence at Temple Emanuel Friday, Nov. 19, at 8:15 p.m.

The nationally known teacher and preacher is the rabbi emeritus of the Westchester Reform Temple in Scarsdale, N.Y., where he served the majority of his 30-year rabbinic.

Rabbi Stern will

Rabbi Jack Stern

give three lectures in Andover. Tonight, Thursday, he will address the teachers of the Temple Nursery School and Religious School on "Teaching Spirituality to our Children."

Tomorrow, Friday morning, Rabbi Stern will address a gathering of Christian and Jewish clergy on the subject, "The World According to Adam and Eve: A Jewish View of Human Nature."

His remarks on Friday evening will be on "Bringing the Sacred into Our Lives." He will speak during the regular Friday evening Sabbath service.

Rabbi Stern's appearance in Andover is sponsored by the Bernice and Thayer Warshaw Distinguished Visitor Fund.

All local clergy are invited to the clergy lecture and luncheon on Friday at 10 a.m. The public is invited to the Friday evening program.

Call Temple Emanuel at 470-1356 for more information.

Andover Unitarians to celebrate Thanksgiving with Sunday bread service

The Andover Unitarian Universalist Church will celebrate Thanksgiving by conducting a service about bread Sunday, Nov. 21, at 10:30 a.m.

Bread's importance as sustenance and symbol will be explored and the senior and junior choirs will join to sing its praises.

The Andover Unitarian Church is located at 6 Locke St.

Women & Joint Custody

After divorce or separation, joint legal custody means that you and your husband must consult and agree on all major decisions governing your children's lives such as medical care, education and religious training. In recent years, joint legal custody has become very fashionable for separated and divorced couples because it appears to offer a way to involve both parents in their children's lives. However, joint legal custody requires you to maintain continued contact with your husband and may mean additional Court involvement in your family's life when you and your husband cannot agree.

Selectmen approve appointment of 3 new police officers

By Don Staruk

Appointment of three new police officers was approved by the Board of Selectmen at its meeting Monday night, Nov. 15.

The three new officers will fill positions vacated by two recent retirements and one officer who left the force, and will not increase the budget of the department, according to Buzz Stapczynski, town manager.

"These are three funded vacancies," Mr. Stapczynski said.

The new officers will start Dec. 1.

Richard M. Edson, currently an officer with the North Andover Police Department, will fill the position left vacant by Matthew Aumais, who joined the Massachusetts State Police.

William J. Ouellette, currently a patrolman with the Lawrence Police Department, will fill the position left vacant by the retirement of Fred Sunderland, who left for medical reasons.

Edward J. Higgenbottom, now a patrolman in the Methuen Police Department, will fill the position vacated by the retirement of Sgt. Thomas Siopes, who was involuntarily retired by the town earlier this year for medical reasons. Mr. Siopes, who has been out of work since November 1991 since undergoing angioplasty surgery for heart problems, is appealing his involuntary retirement.

The new officers each have between three and 10 years experience as police officers, according to Lt. Phillip Froburg. The fact that the officers are experienced will save the town the cost and time of having to send them to the state police academy for a 16-week training course, and for on-the-job training, which can take up to a year for a rookie officer.

Two officers were laid off from the Andover force two years ago and were subsequently hired by North Reading. Brian McNally has since become a state police officer. Both he and Joseph Thibodeau, who still works for North Reading, were given the opportunity to return to the Andover force, but opted to stay where they are, according to Lt. Froburg.

The new hires maintain the number of positions on the force at 49, including six lieutenants, seven sergeants, 32 patrolmen and the chief.

The force is still seven shy of a full compliment, according to Lt.

Froburg.

"We're currently seven down. That's probably been five years," the lieutenant said.

Clearing the leaf problem

Mr. Stapczynski told board members that, because residents are having problems getting clear plastic bags to put leaves in, the town will now accept leaves in colored plastic bags for the curbside collection.

The town and trash-collection contractor only ask that residents put all the bags of leaves together in a separate pile from the regular trash.

The town collects leaves at curbside on the same day as regular weekly trash collection. The curbside leaf collection will continue this week and

Nashua Flute Choir to perform at Memorial Hall Library

Most people are familiar with the C-flute. The standard flute of today is one of the most popular instruments studied. Few people are aware, however, of the other members of the flute family: the piccolo, the E-flat flute, the alto flute and the bass flute.

The Friends of Memorial Hall

Library will present an opportunity to hear all members of the flute family when they sponsor the Nashua Flute Choir in performance Sunday, Nov. 21, at 3 p.m. at the library.

The Nashua Flute Choir, founded in 1984, is a volunteer group of 11 flutists from diverse career backgrounds. They come together to share their love of the flute and the sound of an all-flute ensemble. The flute choir performs throughout Massachusetts and New Hampshire and was recently featured at the 1993 National Flute Association Convention.

Sunday's program will include works by Handel, Schubert and Bach as well as lighter works by Mancini and Rodgers. The choir's director, Douglas Worthen, will also be featured as soloist in Doppler's "Hungarian Fantasy." Mr. Worthen is on the faculty of the New England Conservatory and has appeared as soloist in the United States, Europe and Canada.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Peabody Museum announces current exhibits and hours

The Robert S. Peabody Museum of Archaeology at Phillips Academy will be closed Nov. 24-26 for the Thanksgiving holiday. The museum will be open as usual from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 27.

The museum, on the corner of Main (Route 28) and Phillips streets, is open to the public without charge. Regular hours are Tuesday through Friday, noon to 5 p.m., and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

A special exhibition illustrating the changing techniques and processes of archaeology in more than 60 years in the exploration of an important local site, "10,000 Years in Tewksbury: Archaeological Investigations of the Heath Brook Site, Tewksbury, Massachusetts," continues until Dec. 30. Another new exhibit is "Voices on Repatriation," presenting a summary of the Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act and its effect on museums and Native people.

The museum exhibits artifacts and documents from its collections of Native American materials, especially featuring the Northeast, Southeast, Midwest, Southwest and Mexico. The collections range from Paleo-Indian (11,500 years ago) to European contact.

Saturday night concert benefits The People's Pantry

A concert to benefit The People's Pantry will be held Saturday, Nov. 20, at North Andover's North Parish Church, the pantry's home, to celebrate one year of providing groceries to those in need. Doors open at 7:15 p.m.; music will begin at 8.

Featured will be For No Apparent

Reason, a local folk/rock group that has long been part of the New England music scene. The band's blend of music has been influenced by traditional folk, country, bluegrass, and rock 'n' roll. They have appeared on stage with Jimmy Buffet, comedian Robert Klein and John Lincoln Wright.

For No Apparent Reason features John Schindler and Paul Therkelsen on guitar, Mike Donlin on banjo and Brendan Roche on harmonica, with all four members contributing to the group's vocal sound. The concert is co-sponsored by the Crossroads Coffeehouse and The People's Pantry and will benefit the pantry, an all-volunteer program that serves anyone in need of food. Tickets are $6 for adults, $4 for students and seniors and are available at the door. The church is located at Mass. Avenue and Great Pond Road in North Andover. Call Carl Marchese at 685-8628 for tickets or information.

When your Dad bought his first home in 1969, his mortgage rate was 8%.

Imagine his big surprise when you tell him your mortgage rate today is 6.66%*.

And your Dad was worried you would never be able to afford to buy your own home. That's because over the life of his mortgage, he saw interest rates soar and home prices escalate. He worried about how his children would ever be able to have what he had - the security of home ownership.

But times change. And this time they've changed for the better. Mortgage rates have not been lower since 1968. With home prices dropping, now is the best time in almost 25 years to invest in home ownership.

So give Community Savings Bank a call. Let us give you information about all our home mortgage rates. Then call your Dad with the good news. He'll be surprised. Then he'll be happy.

Stephen heads south for transplant

After the chemotherapy knocked his cancer down somewhat this past September, Stephen went to the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang Camp and its annual gala, where he sang and performed on stage with Ms. Basinger, Neil Sedaka, Paul Newman and Carole King. The camp has become one of Stephen's favorite places since he was diagnosed with cancer.

"Everybody loves each other. Everybody cares for each other. All your friends are so supportive. If you act weird and crazy, they're going to love you for it," Stephen said about the camp in an interview with the Townsmen last year.

The Milmoes had been asked to write a letter describing what the Hole-in-the-Wall Camp meant to them, and to read it at the September gala. Ms. Milmoe said she wrote the letter, but couldn't read it without crying, so actress Joanne Woodward, Paul Newman's wife, read it for her.

Back to the hospital

After the chemotherapy was completed in September, there was still a small bit of the tumor in Stephen's brain, and doctors considered performing standard surgery to remove it, but instead opted for a fairly new technique called radio surgery.

In October Stephen went into Brigham and Women's Hospital in Boston where a metal halo-looking device was screwed into his head and a Computer Axial Tomography (CAT) scan pinpointed the location of the tumor, which was then hit with 1,000 rads of radiation.

"That killed the tumor that was left," Ms. Milmoe said.

Stephen was then treated with an experimental drug to knock down any cancer cells still in his spinal fluid, but the medicine caused him a lot of pain and he had to have morphine, and another drug that make him forget things so he can bear it.

"He's having a tough time now," Stephen's mother said. "These are the first human studies on this drug."

Since talking with the Townsmen two weeks ago, Stephen stopped taking that medicine. It caused him to lose his sense of taste, his appetite, it caused headaches and vomiting, and it finally began to affect his vision. He was scheduled to go to Duke at the end of November, but since he stopped taking the experimental drug, he went to Duke University, in Durham, N.C., two weeks early.

"It's good for Stephen," his mother said.

The chemotherapy and the experimental medicine are aimed at knocking down as much of the cancer as possible. The analogous bone marrow rescue is designed to continue that effort.

During the rescue operation, his bone marrow will be harvested and frozen, then he will receive heavy doses of chemotherapy for a week. The chemo is so intense that it will kill the remainder of his marrow. Experts hope it will also kill whatever cancer cells are still floating in his spinal fluid. His frozen bone marrow will then be replaced and he will spend months in recovery.

Unlike Amy Duarte, another Andover resident who underwent a bone marrow transplant, in South Carolina two weeks ago in her fight against leukemia, Stephen's marrow is not affected by his disease. The fact that he's using his own marrow, unlike Amy, who used her sister's, should help Stephen recover more quickly, his mother said.

The Milmoes are going to Duke because that is where the treatment is available that they think will give Stephen the best chance at life, his mother said. Ms. Milmoe is clear that the fact that the family chose Duke should not reflect poorly on Dana Farber Cancer Institute, Children's Hospital, or any other local medical facility. Those facilities have been very good to Stephen. It is just that the Milmoes have decided on a particular doctor and protocol of treatment for Stephen and it happens to be available at Duke.

"We're pulling from all over because we think they are giving Stephen the best shot for life," Ms. Milmoe said.

She and Stephen will stay at the Ronald McDonald House for cancer patients for the roughly two months it will take before Stephen can return home. The entire recovery will take from two to six months, but they are hoping to have Stephen back in school by April.

Stephen is still in school part time, and was in school when the Townsmen talked with his mother.

"The High School has been wonderful for him," Ms. Milmoe said.

Erich Birkby, 15, the son of Bruce and Pat Birkby, is Stephen's best friend and calls Stephen every day he doesn't come to school.

planning a big Thanksgiving/Christmas celebration on Thanksgiving weekend, but that is off because Stephen is going to Duke this week.

Ms. Milmoe has finished all her Christmas shopping and even bought an artificial Christmas tree for the first time in her life.

Stephen's sister, Anne, a freshman at Colgate University, will be home. Stephen also has two brothers, Christopher, 12, a seventh-grader at West Middle School, and Andrew, 9, a fourth-grader at Sanborn Elementary School. It was Chris who answered the phone last week when Ms. Basinger called.

Ms. Basinger told Stephen that he and the other kids at the Hole-in-the-Wall Gang Camp are even braver than the firefighters who were battling the wildfires in California last week, his mother said. She also said she would call him in North Carolina after his operation.

Early in his battle against his disease, Stephen had the opportunity to meet Mike Myers, the Saturday Night Live actor and star of the movie Wayne's World. The two have since become quite friendly, exchanging letters and gifts.

This past Halloween weekend, Stephen went to the Saturday Night Live show in New York and spent about a half hour with Mr. Myers during the afternoon. Stephen gave Mr. Myers an Andover sweatshirt and a Hole-in-the-Wall Gang hat. At the end of Saturday's show, when all the actors come out on stage to say good night, Mr. Myers had on the Andover sweatshirt and the hat, and when he spotted Stephen in the crowd, they gave each other a bow with outstretched arms, the "we are not worthy" salute from Wayne's World.

Ms. Milmoe said Stephen would love to get letters while he's in the hospital and promised to send the Townsmen his address in Durham as soon as they get settled.

Good luck, Stephen!

Paula Leed, left, is recognized by Carin Townsend, executive director of the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Greater Boston.

Paula Leed honored by Make-A-Wish Foundation

Paula Leed, owner of Royal Jewelers in Andover, was presented with two volunteer recognition awards from the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Greater Boston: the Abracadabra Award and the All Star Award.

Carin Townsend, executive director of Make-A-Wish of Greater Boston, said, "The Abracadabra Award is presented to wish volunteers who have created a magical and unique experience for his/her wish family. The All Star Award is for volunteers who have positively impacted many different areas of the organization through participation on a variety of committees and activities. Paula has made such a tremendous impact on our organization. She is an absolute gem with an incredible capacity to perform magical feats."

The Make-A-Wish Foundation is dedicated to granting the favorite wishes of children between the ages of 3 and 18 with life-threatening illnesses. Since 1987, the Make-A-Wish Foundation of Greater Boston has granted more than 350 wishes to children living in the communities of Eastern Massachusetts.

Being co-owner of a retail business takes a lot of time, energy and dedication, but Ms. Leed feels that "Giving back to the community is what it's all about and what makes going the extra mile worthwhile. We just need more people to take that time."

U.S. Healthcare

A Celebration Of Health

New England employers, are you tired of the steady procession of health care plans offering no real solutions to your problems?

U.S. Healthcare, recently named a "top-flight" managed care company by U.S. News & World Report, is one company that's keeping in step with the times. U.S. Healthcare offers a variety of cost-effective health plans, including plans that provide coverage within U.S. Healthcare's network of private-practice physicians and plans that provide the flexibility of coverage out of the HMO network.

The new Liberty Plan from U.S. Healthcare*, for example, combines the most popular features of a traditional indemnity plan with cost-effective systems that are hallmark of managed care. And, unlike some indemnity plans, the Liberty Plan offers coverage at any doctor's office.

U.S. Healthcare® Presents: Health Care Solutions!

office—anywhere in the world. Qualified employers can also choose U.S. Healthcare's point-of-service flexible HMO options, such as the Versatile® HMO and Choice of Excellence™ plans.

Due to mandatory participation requirements and employees living outside HMO service areas, some employers need to explore new options. For these employers, U.S. Healthcare is uniquely positioned to be the Total Solution to all your health care needs. Sound like music to your ears? Just give us a ring at 1-800-338-USHC.

More violence in the schools

Last week's editorial, "Weapons are serious business," was prompted by the incident of a 15-year-old student at Andover High School bringing a starter's gun to school. That boy now faces the possibility of being expelled from school.

This week, at least four more Andover High students face expulsion, as well as possible criminal charges, following a series of incidents involving weapons, thefts and trespassing at the school.

And at Greater Lawrence Technical School, two students face expulsion and criminal charges, one for having a gun in school and the other for injuring a fellow student by throwing two one-foot squares of sheet metal and seriously injuring another student.

Schools in Andover are not exempt from incidences in which students will bring weapons to school. No longer can we in the suburbs call guns at school an urban problem. They are a problem here.

Principals should be ruthlessly strict when making decisions about students who bring weapons to school. Students deserve to feel safe at school. The word has got to be that schools will not tolerate violence within their walls.

In addition, we as a community have to ask the question again and again: What is wrong? Why is this happening? We can blame violence in schools on television and violence in the media, or on a lack of parents who are emotionally and physically available to their children, or on how easy it is for people to buy guns, or on the uncertain economic times.

Many children feel disenfranchised today. They sometimes feel they are not useful. Many do not have jobs, even jobs around their own houses. In some cases, adults are too busy to listen to children. Children often don't feel valued.

Ask your own children, ask young people with whom you have a chance to talk: Are adults listening to you? Is there something I can do for you? Is there something you can do for me, or for someone else in the community?

Let's acknowledge there is a problem and talk about it.

The photo at left shows the nurse in the Vietnam Women's Memorial that often is missing when the memorial is photographed. The photo on the right is taken from the rear of the memorial, where people are crouched down to get a view of the nurse who is shown in the photo at left.

Looking at Vietnam without glory

By Perry Colmore

Sue O'Neill doesn't like statues, parades and other vehicles that may create a positive feeling about war. She believes that glorifying war is inappropriate. She doesn't talk that much about serving as a nurse in the Vietnam War in 1969 and 1970.

But she was in Washington, D.C., the weekend of Nov. 5 for the dedication of the Vietnam Women's Memorial and related ceremonies.

"It was the first time I'd ever seen a town overrun by middle-aged women. Everywhere I went, there were middle-aged women," said Ms. O'Neill, 46, of Argyle Street.

Ms. O'Neill served in the operating room with the 12th Evac Hospital in Cu Chi. She saw a lot of blood and death while nursing there, but she believes what she did was easier than working in the wards.

"Being in the operating room had one real advantage," she said. "You didn't get to know people. That distance helped."

People I know who have had the most trouble were in the wards."

In Washington, Ms. O'Neill was re-united with four nurses with whom she served in Vietnam. One was her commanding officer, who was in charge of the operating room. "She could never have children so we were all her children," said Ms. O'Neill. "She remembered me and she asked for Paul."

Paul O'Neill is Ms. O'Neill's husband, whom she married right after serving in Vietnam. The O'Neills met in Vietnam. He was the registrar at the 12th Evac Hospital.

At the Washington ceremonies, Ms. O'Neill said it was difficult to see the unveiling because there were so many people attending. Later, she got a better look at the memorial, which honors the 265,000 women who served in Vietnam.

"It's very touching, very appropriate," she said. "It's not glorious. The issue with me is I don't like the idea of honoring things that have to do with war. But the statue is quite different."

The statue is of three nurses and a wounded male soldier. One nurse is holding the soldier, another is standing, looking toward the sky, perhaps praying, perhaps watching for approaching help. In published photos of the monument, the third nurse usually doesn't show up. It is that nurse who most impressed Ms. O'Neill.

"The third nurse is behind the statue," said Ms. O'Neill. "She's the most touching. She is very quiet. She doesn't look up or out. She is introspective. The look on her face, of fatigue and despair, was what you felt over there. And you have to get down on your knees to see her face."

On the day after the ceremonies in Washington, Ms. O'Neill went back to the monument to get a better look. She said it "gave me a tremendous lump" to see people on their knees, getting a better look at the third nurse.

In addition, by the second day

League backs Clinton health proposals

Editor, Townsmen:

The Andover League of Women Voters and League members across the United States urge all citizens support President Clinton's health care reform package. The Clinton proposals mark a critical step forward and will fix fundamental flaws in our nation's health care system.

This is real reform. The plan provides for universal access and for stringent cost-control measures – the two most important criteria set forth by League members after more than three years of studying the health care crisis.

Under the plan, Americans will be covered no matter where they live, where they work or how much they earn. The plan's basic benefits package will be a boon to people's health, especially for women. For the first time, all Americans will be guaranteed coverage for prevention, primary and acute care and reproductive services, including abortion, are incorporated in the plan. Mental health and long-term care benefits are included but limited to contain costs.

The Clinton plan controls costs by standardizing forms, introducing new competitive structures and limiting spending. Health-care costs have doubled since 1980 and will double again by the year 2000; millions of Americans are without coverage or struggle to make health insurance payments. Strong action must be taken.

The president's health care plan is not perfect, but it is fair. It will need some fine-tuning in the legislative process. For example, greater citizen participation in all aspects of the plan's implementation would ensure that government-sponsored programs will be responsive to citizen needs.

The League commends our representatives – senators Kennedy and Kerry and Congressman Meehan – for their leadership on the health-care issue in Congress and their support of the president's plan. They need to hear from all of us to push for action now. Inaction will cost all of us dearly.

We need a viable plan that gives all Americans a more humane health-care system. The League of Women Voters believes the president's health-care plan provides an effective blueprint for reform.

Notes from a good recycler

Editor, Townsmen:

I am an eighth-grader at Doherty Middle School. I am involved in the after-school activity of Kids-For-Kids. In sixth grade, with the help of Mrs. Reuss, our Kids-For-Kids adviser, we managed to continue a recycling project that started in the school year 1990-1991. It is still continuing.

I realize that after reading the Andover Townsman this week that you use 39 percent recycled paper for printing. Ms. Raymond, who wrote a letter to you that was printed in the paper of Nov. 4, 1993, page 40, had a concern of recycling. I agree with many of her ideas. I, as a student, have homework which includes writing poems, math problems, science labs, etc. They all have to be written on paper and whenever possible, I use 100-percent recycled paper. It may not be as white as the other paper, but, if it helps the environment that I have to live in, then I will try to use it.

My family recycles all the cans, paper, plastic and bottles that we accumulate and puts them in the blue recycling box that we have. In England, where I am from, we did not have this facility. There was a recycling site that you could take the bottles to and sort them out by color.

I have observed that as a community we do a good job recycling, but, everybody does need to be reminded occasionally. We had a laser show at our school on Wednesday 3, 1993, and some of the facts that came out of it were fascinating. For instance, two-thirds of the rain forest has been destroyed and it is decreasing at the rate of a football field a second. Also, that nuclear waste can outlive any container it is put in.

I ride my bike to school every day, but if it is raining, I take the MVRTA shuttle bus. If people walked for a short distance instead of taking a car, they would reduce the amount of pollution going into the air.

If we all do our part, we can save our planet, bit by bit.

Sympathy for North Andover

Editor, Townsmen:

Don't tell us your sob stories, North Andover! The North Andover selectmen, together with their newly elected state representative, Donna Cuomo, came to the Andover selectmen a few weeks back to ask them, in good faith, to support their efforts to stop the reincarnation of the GLSD sludge incinerator in their town.

The response? Not what you might have expected from a neighbor. No gratitude for having hosted the sludge incinerator as long as they did, together with a trash incinerator (the NESWC facility) still in operation. No sympathetic acknowledgement that things went very wrong with this same incinerator before and that to expect North Andover to graciously open their doors again is a lot to ask. The response from Andover – from our own representative to the GLSD, Mr. Bob McQuade – as reported in the Townsmen Nov. 4 – was suggestions that North Andover has been manipulative and brought all this misery on itself and accusations of profiteering.

Mr. McQuade asserts that it was North Andover's fault that the sludge incinerator developed "odor and emission problems" that caused it to shut down. These "problems" were not of a trivial nature. The stench and the filth were unbearable and toxic heavy metals were being emitted, not the kind of experience one would typically subject oneself to voluntarily. In fact, the problems were largely due to mismanagement by the GLSD staff. When this state of affairs came to light, did the GLSD do the honorable thing and voluntarily shut down the incinerator? No, they did not. The state Department of Environmental Protection had to step in and force them to shut it down.

We are assured that this scenario will not be repeated. Never mind that the smoke stack is too short or that the ash pit is near a water well. After all, Mr. McQuade assures us, models have proven this incinerator will function properly. I can't help but wonder whether there wasn't a model of the original sludge incinerator that "proved" it would work as well.

Mr. McQuade further complains that North Andover is getting a "kick-back" of $1.90 a ton, which they would probably use (oh, horrors!) to build schools. In fact, it is customary for the town that has agreed to subject itself to having an incinerator within its boundaries to receive some compensation. If we are convinced that the $1.90-a-ton is such a sweet deal, why don't we offer to resolve this issue by building a new sludge incinerator in downtown Andover? Mr. McQuade says all other alternatives have been looked at. I'll bet that one hasn't.

While we're on the subject of alternatives, the front-runner at this point is to burn the sludge in the NESWC trash incinerator. Largely due to commendable recycling efforts, this facility has already been forced to solicit nearly half of the waste it burns from outside its 26-member community. If the retrofit of the sludge incinerator actually happens, it, too, will have to import nearly half of what it burns, nearly 40,000 tons a year, in order to operate at a sustainable level.

Why are we committing to further deterioration of the air quality in the Merrimack Valley (the key word here is "valley" – those fumes stay right here with us) when there is a very good possibility that we could simply consolidate and burn all the sludge and trash in the NESWC facility? If Mr. McQuade really feels this is financially untenable, why did he twice vote in favor of conducting a test burn of sludge at the NESWC facility?

Finally, a comment on misdirected

Serving in the war "has given me a view of war. It's made me a tremendous pacifist," said Ms. O'Neill.

Asked how she adjusted after the war, Ms. O'Neill said getting married right away helped. She said the first few months home when she heard a loud noise, "your first impulse was to scramble for a ditch."

"But life got too busy," she said.

Recently, she agreed to be part of a study of post traumatic stress syndrome. She said she knew she wasn't suffering from post-war stress, but the study needed those who had adjusted well, as well as those who didn't.

While participating in the study, she met some women who talked about how the recent Persian Gulf War stirred up some memories and difficult times for them.

Ms. O'Neill said she "got very crawly" while reading about and hearing about the Persian Gulf War. "I was angry. It's easiest to get angry at the government."

Ms. O'Neill believes the Vietnam Women's Memorial will serve "to remind people that men aren't the only ones who suffer from war."

It has been 12 years since Ms. O'Neill worked as a nurse. She went back to graduate school to study journalism. Recently, she took some courses to update her nursing degree. Now she would like a job that would combine her medical- and writing-skills backgrounds.

Store's look doesn't fit in Andover

Editor, Townsmen:

After the community's support to save Andover's Old Town Hall and the costs and dedication of many to preserve old churches and other landmarks, the decision to allow an out-of-scale, glossy Royal Jewelers in the heart of Main Street is perplexing. The store completely changes the appearance and tenor of Andover's small downtown area.

It is unimaginable that comparable towns such as Concord, Winchester or Lexington would allow such incompatible structures in their centers. Andover residents and elected officials should express their vision for the town through well defined and consistent building requirements.

At the very least the owners of Royal Jewelers should be asked to replace the bars covering their massive windows with a better alarm system or thicker glass. BayBank (across the street), Regina Gifts (on the same block) and all other banks and shops along Main Street seem to be safe without creating images of urban blight in Andover.

Competition is being pummeled

Editor, Townsmen:

As a self-employed human resource consultant and having been a mental health counselor at McLean Psychiatric Hospital, I feel compelled to respond to several comments concerning competition, self-esteem, inclusion and what I envision as the end-result of such.

What's striking to me is how competition is being savagely pummeled as being detrimental to self-esteem, irrelevant to the workplace and a negative influence on society. What's going on here? And why?

In my opinion there's been an enormous effort nationally to undermine our existing American way of life, which has been successfully achieved mostly through competition, self-reliance and traditional family values so as to academically, socially and economically re-engineer society. It's effort seems spearheaded by well- and non-well intentioned individuals who hold the American way of life in contempt because they themselves aren't or don't successfully compete in it. So their goal is to ensure equal outcomes through rigid control of the process. Total equality translates to a just society.

Academically, this manifests itself by slowing down accelerated students with full inclusion - their tutoring slower learners instead of enabling them to learn new or advanced material, being told it's "unfair" to other children to approach learning any other way and then be told that not only will standards go up, but that the curriculum will be tailor fit to meet the needs of all students in a classroom. This sounds like academic redistribution. Does anyone think this is possible without lowering standards?

Competition is a reality of life. If we want our children to attain the best jobs and an eventual high standard/quality of life, we must come to grips with the fact that they will be competing for jobs when they enter the workforce. This is our capitalist way of life - they won't be experiencing a communal existence in the business world. The more quality the job, the more people will desire it, hence fiercer competition. The top employment fields of the future, biotechnology, software, health/medical care, environmental and communications, will all require superior math, science and verbal/written communications capabilities.

Over 60 percent of our workers are employed in companies with fewer than 100 people and large companies are downsizing. Departments in companies have the same work to accomplish as ever but utilize fewer people and increased technological assistance than before. It's now management by objective or customer need in the business world. Companies look for people who are smart "quick studies," results-oriented, adaptable to their environment, have a strong work ethic and a sense that the individual will accomplish more work than an ordinary person. Most companies no longer have the financial plus time luxury to have "large groups of engineers at Apple computer working cooperatively" as a self-esteem consultant stated in a previous letter. Cooperative education plays to the 1990s, not the 1990s. Competition contributes to a positive end result by encouraging children to fully apply themselves.

Competition enables children to measure themselves with others. Self-esteem occurs when children come from a home where they are unconditionally loved, accepted and involved with by their parents and come to a school where teachers care about them and that they learn. Then when children are rewarded for their effort, they will experience meaningful achievement which will boost self-esteem more. The effort, not the end result, should be the desired goal. Winning or success is simply a byproduct or end result of effort. Top effort will then become a positive habit.

My experience with self-esteem is that it primarily emanates from the home. If we as parents don't successfully do our part, the teachers will have an impossible task. We can't expect our teachers to act as surrogate parents - we need them to challenge our children and impart academic knowledge.

Finally, I want the best for my children and care about the kind of society and world they will be a part of. I don't want to see our country's standards and quality of life deteriorate. There are many countries in the world who would love for us to economically decline. This will occur by being cooperative, not competitive, dependent, not self-reliant, lower academic standards, not raise them, and become complacent, not motivated, so that they will be better able to successfully compete against us. They would like to dominate, not cooperate with us. Let the teachers educate our children academically and let the parents instill social values and prepare them to enter society. As for the public education policymakers, I can't help but ask that in their intellectual wisdom have they lost touch with the way education correlates with how working world really exists?

Andover is a spacious town with a population of nearly 30,000, fast approaching enough to comprise an entire state legislative district. Citizens, business people and civic leaders throughout Andover have worked very hard to develop and maintain a small town atmosphere and sense of community. The House redistricting plan seriously undermines these efforts.

Furthermore, much of Andover's industrial base is located in Precinct 5, including such companies as Hewlett-Packard Medical, Digital and Smith & Nephew-Dionics. This economic area is vital not only to the town of Andover, but to the Greater Lawrence region. The needs and concerns of these communities are unique and should retain their own representation.

In addition to alienating the citizens of Precinct 5 in Andover from the rest of the town, the plan divides the city of Lawrence into legislative districts involving three other towns, removes one-third of the town of North Andover from the 14th Essex legislative district, and places the Essex County community of Middleton into a Middlesex County legislative district.

One of the primary objectives in redistricting is to create compact and contiguous districts whenever possible. During the redistricting debate I offered an amendment that would have enhanced the House plan by creating more compact districts. The communities of Andover, Lawrence, North Andover and Wilmington, which are divided under the House redistricting plan, would have been made whole by the amendment. In addition, the town of Middleton, which was chopped out of Essex County and placed into a Middlesex County district, would have been returned to an Essex County district. Our town manager and Board of Selectmen, the League of Women Voters of Andover, the Andover Chamber of Commerce and Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce wrote letters in opposition to the House redistricting plan and in support of the improvements I offered.

I'm sure you will agree that the House redistricting plan is grossly unfair to the people of Andover. Please join me in the fight to keep our town under one legislative district by writing to Gov. Weld and urging his veto of this ill-conceived bill. The governor's mailing address is as follows:

His Excellency William F. Weld
Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts
Statehouse, Room 360
Boston, Mass. 02133

I would like to thank all who have called and written to me in support of keeping Andover whole. Your support is greatly appreciated. I hope others will now join us in our fight for fair and equal representation for all who live in Andover.

Thank you.

This area talks about NAFTA

too many other forces have an effect on the American economy.

"I think that's an important argument to make," said Curtis Martin, chairman of the political science department at Merrimack College. "There are so many other policies which affect this."

Nevertheless, the passage of NAFTA would certainly create another force on the economy and have measurable effects on jobs, wages, company location, and the United States' bargaining position in future trade and political agreements. For these reasons nearly every national and local political scientist, economist, businessperson and politician has taken a long and serious look at NAFTA.

Job loss

One of the most heated elements of the debate is whether companies will up and move to Mexico with the passage of NAFTA, and in so doing, take jobs with them. It is what Ross Perot referred to as the giant sucking sound.

"If you're in a position where you have to compete with Third World workers, you don't like it," said Charles Tontar, chairman of the economics department at Merrimack College. "Textiles clearly would be a problem."

"It's not only lower wages, it's job loss," he said. "The agreement does not provide for a mechanism to ameliorate the negative aspects of free trade."

Opponents of NAFTA, such as union leaders, have said that the elimination of tariffs would cause American companies to flee south of the border in search of cheap labor.

NAFTA supporters have argued that the elimination of tariffs and other borders to trade would open up greater markets, allowing more products to be sold and producing more jobs.

"NAFTA will cut red tape and open up markets to the products and services our people produce. Raytheon is a large diversified company" that makes everything from air-traffic control systems to home appliances, said Ed Powers, a public affairs consultant for Raytheon. "The passage of NAFTA will create new market opportunities in these areas. Locally there would be less of an effect because our main products (in Andover) are the Patriot and Hawk. Nationally, it will create more sales, which can provide jobs."

Raytheon, Digital Equipment Corp., The Gillette Co. and Hewlett-Packard, all large corporations with facilities in Andover, have come out in strong support of NAFTA. U.S. Rep. Marty Meehan, D-Lowell, chose Andover's Hewlett-Packard as the site for his pro-NAFTA announcement Monday.

Though the passage of NAFTA is most commonly linked to growing sales in high-tech and communications areas, Matt Miller, manager of corporate public relations for Gillette, said the company expects to triple sales of its South Boston-made Sensor razor within three years. Though he was not clear what effect NAFTA would have on the other toiletry items made in Andover, he said, "If NAFTA passes and it's easier to market products into Mexico it would be more attractive to us to enter that market."

A spokesman for Digital said that the company intends to keep its plants in Massachusetts regardless of the NAFTA vote outcome, and said that if anything, NAFTA would bring back jobs.

"It does just the opposite for us," said Kenneth McDonnell, a public affairs consultant. Like many companies, Digital had located plants in Mexico in order to sell there, because of the barriers to trade the nation once had. Without those barriers, he said, there would be no reason to build plants there.

Digital recently chose a Hudson, Mass., location to be its flagship technology station by producing ultra-high performance computer chips.

"We're ensuring those jobs," said Mr. McDonnell. "We could have located that anywhere in the world if we were only interested in low wages, but we're so confident in the work force in this area."

"NAFTA won't make Mexican labor more competitive in terms of labor or training than it is now," said Dr. Martin.

Opening of markets

"We basically like the agreement in general. We have no real qualms at all. It will create more jobs in the United States," said Mr. McDonnell.

"The Mexican computer or information technology market, which is the industry we're in, is about a $1.5 billion market annually that is growing 20 percent a year," he said.

"Mexico is growing," said economics professor Tontar. "But Mexico can grow by leaps and bounds and have little effect on the American economy."

Mexico would make up only 4 percent of the proposed North American bloc, while the U.S. would account for 88 percent. However, the agreement would create the largest trading bloc in the world, a bloc with a $6.8 trillion output a year by last year's figures.

"In terms of gross domestic product Mexico is about half the size of Canada, and Canada is about one-tenth of the United States," said Dr. Martin. "This is adding at the margins to an already large market."

Dr. Martin also said that the agreement might lead to free trade pacts with other Latin American nations that have been looking longingly at NAFTA.

"We don't want to end up blaming NAFTA for every long-term economic problem," said Dr. Martin. "There will be some companies moving. But have there been companies moving in the past decade? Sure."

"We wouldn't expect some sudden lurching of American companies to the south," he said. "It definitely will not be the great sucking sound. Maybe a little hissing sound."

"They are leaving anyway," agreed Professor Tontar. "The question is whether this NAFTA will do anything to address the problems that (are rising) from globalization."

"It's not that I object to free trade," he said. "But NAFTA increases capital mobility while at the same time it does not create structures to control mobility."

Lowering of wages

The economics chairman said he is concerned that the peso-dollar exchange rate could wreak havoc and that institutions are not strong enough to stop cheating, but one of his chief concerns is that NAFTA would lead to a further gap between the rich and the poor. He said companies will use the threat of relocation to drive down wages, and that one of the original goals of the agreement designed by presidents Bush and Salinas was to weaken organized labor.

"I fear that if NAFTA passes," he said, "psychologically it will embolden corporate America."

Supporters of NAFTA counter that if all companies were interested in was lower wages they would have moved long ago. But recent polls have shown that at least one-quarter of CEOs would use NAFTA in an attempt to drive down wages.

Both professors agree that the side agreements negotiated by President Clinton were steps in the right direction, but are not as strong as they could be.

US bargaining position

Finally, proponents of NAFTA argue that a rejection of NAFTA would send a negative message to the rest of the world and weaken its bargaining position not only at the GATT but at the APEC meetings in Seattle. Dr. Martin said that the passage of NAFTA would help Clinton not only with the much mentioned Pacific Rim nations, but "particularly with the problems we are having with the French. In France, they're really loading the ammunition on agricultural subsidies."

Mixed up accounts . . .

The committee directed Mark McQuillan, superintendent of schools, to develop a request to the town manager for a program to correct any problems. The request will be voted on as part of the next meeting's agenda.

"We absolutely have to get these numbers right," said Joanne Marden, member of the town Finance Committee.

"We want to have some accountability for the spending of that department," she said. "There is no system in place where everyone felt comfortable about where the money was going."

However, Ms. Marden said some of the numbers presented by Mr. Willey may not be so ridiculous as they at first seem. In its review of Andover's municipal maintenance budget allocation to the school department's foundation budget, the ad hoc committee used three methods of analysis to arrive at the conclusion, according to Mr. Willey. It compared Andover to similar communities, to other town departments, and to the new formula for calculating spending levels determined by the Education Reform Act.

The first element of the report compared Andover to Chelmsford, Tewksbury, Lexington, North Andover and Winchester, communities that Mr. Willey classified as similar to Andover, based on their size.

"We are (nearly) 50 percent higher in our expenditures for maintenance than any of these other towns," said Mr. Willey.

Mr. Willey also noted that 61 percent of town maintenance charges had been allocated to the school, while the rest of the town accounted for only 38 percent. He said that $4.2 million had been allocated to maintain the schools, while only $2.6 million was allocated for the rest of town.

"If you look at the square footage of the school buildings, that number doesn't seem so out of line," Ms. Marden said at the meeting.

"Not only that, but school buildings take a lot of use. School buildings need more maintenance," she said Wednesday morning. "If schools represent more than 60 percent of the square footage then it's not so outrageous."

Mr. Willey pointed out that Andover's actual maintenance budget for 1993 was three times the amount of the state's allowance based on a recommended system under education reform for 1994. He also explained that large percentages of town departments' budgets were allocated to the school department. In 1993 this included 84 percent of the administration budget category; 72 percent of parks and grounds; 85 percent of the plumbing, heating and electrical budget; 26 percent of vehicle maintenance even though the schools are responsible for as little as one vehicle; and 82 percent of the building maintenance.

"This is a sleeping giant," said School Committee Chairwoman Susan Dalton, "but it's a giant that's going to engulf us."

"It's one thing to recognize a problem and it's another to correct it. This is not a problem we can correct," she said.

"What we need to do now is to (re-examine) the bucket model," said Bill Huston, secretary of the School Committee.

Where the money was listed as being spent was apparently not an issue previously because the money was all going to the town in one form or another. But under the Education Reform Act, schools and towns are concerned that the figures they submit to the state reflect spending more accurately.

Two Tech School students face weapons charges

By Don Staruk

Two Greater Lawrence Technical School students face expulsion and criminal charges, one for having a gun in school last week and the other for injuring a fellow student this past Monday, Nov. 15.

On Wednesday, Nov. 10, at 8:07 a.m., a 16-year-old Lawrence male was arrested after he accidentally dropped a .25 caliber semi-automatic handgun while walking in a hallway at the school and a teacher spotted the weapon. Andover police were called and the student was charged with possession of a dangerous weapon.

The student said he was holding the gun for someone else, according to police and Steve Silverman, dean of discipline at the Technical School.

Assault and battery

On Monday, Nov. 15, at 11:09 a.m., a 15-year-old female student from Lawrence was arrested at the Technical School and charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon after throwing two one-foot squares of sheet metal at a male student. At least one piece struck Ivan Resto, 18, of 448

Union St., Lawrence, cutting his lip open. Mr. Resto received 16 stitches for the wound at Lawrence General Hospital.

The two were allegedly arguing, cursing at each other and calling each other names prior to the incident.

Expulsion expected

Both the juveniles charged, for the gun and the assault, have been suspended and will probably be expelled from the school, according to Mr. Silverman.

"Right now we've made no decision on expulsion. It's now pending," Mr. Silverman said. "Both students have a good chance of being expelled."

The students are disciplined according to provisions in the Education Reform Act of 1993 regarding possession of drugs or weapons in schools, Mr. Silverman said. The procedure involves the superintendent filing an intention to expel a student and provides for an appeal period.

Mr. Silverman said Tuesday he expected decisions to be made on how to proceed with both cases by the middle of this week.

School Committee tackles bus fees, leveling, school choice, and more

By Neil Fater

Although it spent a substantial chunk of its four and a half hour meeting debating the Superintendent's Action Plan, the School Committee dealt with a number of other important issues at Tuesday night's meeting.

Among these were bus fees, leveling, school choice, elementary school additions, and curriculum at Andover High School. Two of these, bus fees and elementary school additions, were not originally on the agenda and were addressed in the time allotted for citizen input.

• Resident Faye Pierce was responsible for keeping the bus fee issue at center stage as she questioned when the committee planned to actively address the issue. The town voted convincingly in favor of abolishing the fee at Special Town Meeting, but the vote was not legally binding, according to Town Counsel Thomas Urbels.

"What I want to see from them is the action from the (vote at) Town Meeting," said Ms. Pierce.

She said she was concerned that the budget was already being prepared, and wanted to be sure if fees were not abolished that they at least reflected the actual cost of transportation.

"The budget process is indeed underway as you suggested, but it's underway in a very preliminary fashion," said Chairwoman Susan Dalton.

"At this point the budget is being prepared without fees," said Mark McQuillan, superintendent of schools.

"Was I satisfied? I didn't really get an answer to my question," said Ms. Pierce. She said she was pleased the budget was being prepared without fees.

"But my question to them was when will it be put on the agenda and the answer was, 'We'll see.'"

• Three so-called schemes for additions and renovations to South Elementary School were presented to the committee last night, as well. School Committee members voted unanimously for the third scheme, which was the same plan that the faculty had been leaning toward, according to Jim Marsh, acting chairman of the School Building Committee. The plans include turning the current cafeteria into a gym for the primary grades, having about a 20-foot wall around some of the school, moving some playing fields to the back of the school, possibly putting a small pitch in the roof, and changing the cubby hole areas into lockers.

• The committee voted unanimously to withdraw from the School Choice Program.

• Committee members also took favorable action on an altered version of the policy on retention guidelines at the high school originally presented to the committee by representatives of the student government.

• Principal Tim Thomas and Assistant Principal Ellen Parker discussed the curriculum and leveling at the high school.

Redistricting: It's not all settled, yet

By Alix Driscoll

There are two scenarios for keeping Andover together in one Massachusetts House of Representatives district.

Last week the state redistricting plan chopped off Precinct 5 in West Andover from the 17th Essex District and the rest of the town. It was reattached to the mainly-Lowell 18th Middlesex District. Much of Andover's industrial base and 2,591 residents are in Precinct 5. It is the area west of Route 93. Tewksbury borders on the south and the Merrimack River on the west. The district includes Raytheon Corp., Hewlett-Packard Corp., Smith & Nephew Dial and Digital Equipment Corporation.

The bill, which passed the House last week, is sitting on Gov. Weld's desk.

If the governor vetoes it, the bill will go back to the House. Then, if one third of the House agrees with the governor and sustains his veto, it is back to the drawing board for a new redistricting plan, according to state Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover.

Court challenge

"If the veto is overridden, I expect a court challenge. I expect action from minority groups or the Republican State Committee," said Rep. Coon.

There are two major problems with the House plan. There were not enough minority districts created, and many districts are not "compact and contiguous," he explained.

Andover is certainly not compact. Precinct 5 was severed from Andover and attached through one precinct in North Tewksbury to a district in Lowell. Neighboring North Andover was cut into two districts.

Rep. Coon said there were no minority districts created in Lowell and Worcester as had been promised by the House Redistricting Committee and its chairman, Rep. Kevin O'Sullivan, D-Worcester.

Two defeated redistricting plans

The governor's own plan, which included retaining Precinct 5 in Andover, was defeated Monday night, said Rep. Coon. It would have restored Andover, North Andover and Wilmington to wholeness and put Middleton back into an Essex County district. It would have created a minority seat in Lawrence and a second seat that would be 100 percent Lawrence residents.

"The governor's plan established a record or pattern for the courts to look at, to see alternatives. He created compact and contiguous districts," said Rep. Coon.

An alternative plan devised by Rep. Coon, legislators from the Merrimack Valley and northern Middlesex County to keep Andover and several other communities intact did not pass the House last week.

Rep. Coon: Take action, Andover

"It is helpful if the people affected by it in Precinct 5 and all the residents of Andover will write to the governor asking him to veto the plan. They should also write to regional legislators to ask them to sustain the veto," said Rep. Coon.

Official protests

Last week the Board of Selectmen, the town manager, Andover Chamber of Commerce, Greater Lawrence Chamber of Commerce and League of Women Voters of Andover loudly protested the amputation of Precinct 5. They sent letters to Rep. Kevin O'Sullivan, D-Worcester, to ask for reconsideration. They urged Gov. Weld not to sign the bill and to send it back to the House with amendments or his own redistricting plan.

Selectmen now say residents can use colored bags for leaves the week following Thanksgiving. Leaves will not be collected curbside during Thanksgiving week.

Residents can also drop leaves at the compost area at Bald Hill on High Plain Road on Thursday, Friday and Saturday through Dec. 4.

Opposition to redistricting

Mr. Stapczynski told selectmen Monday night that the town has sent letters to Gov. Weld "to let him know we're not happy" the way part of Andover was carved out of the 17th Essex District in a redistricting proposal being considered by the legislature.

The proposal would push West Andover into the 18th Middlesex District.

"We asked that he veto the bill as proposed," Mr. Stapczynski said.

Mr. Stapczynski said he called the governor's office Friday, Nov. 12, and asked a secretary how the calls were coming in regarding the redistricting proposal. He was told the majority of calls were requesting the governor veto the bill as proposed. The manager said the way the calls come in is usually a good indicator of how the governor will act.

Youth Council needs adults

Selectman Larry Larsen told his fellow board members that the Youth Council for teens is in the process of being formed and that adult volunteers are needed to serve as appointees of both the Board of Selectmen and the School Committee. Each board can appoint two members to the council.

Anyone interested should call the town manager's office.

Andover High deals with weapons, discipline

"It was never an imminent threat to anybody," Officer Cronin said. "After the exchange was made, I'm comfortable saying the rifle left the high school never to return."

"Through the Education Reform Act of 1993, the student with the starter gun and the student bringing the dismantled .22-caliber rifle have been notified of the principal's intent to expel them. Both students are presently suspended, and their parents have until Wednesday, Nov. 17, to request a hearing regarding expulsion," Mr. Thomas said in a written statement this week.

The starter's gun and ammunition had been purchased through a mail-order catalog by another student. That third student, although he never had possession of the gun in school, also was expelled Tuesday, Nov. 9.

"The principal has requested Dr. McQuillan to initiate expulsion proceedings for the third student based upon the fact that his actions posed a direct threat to the safety and welfare of the school," Mr. Thomas said.

A fourth student, the one the rifle was sold to, is no longer a student at the school, according to police.

All three students expelled are male and are 15 or 16 years old. The Townsmen is not using their names because they are minors.

"They're all friends," Mr. Thomas said last week.

No other weapons were found, according to Mr. Thomas.

The first student was charged by police with disorderly conduct, possession of ammunition (starter's blanks) and disturbing the peace. His apprehension in the school caused a disruption at the school on Nov. 5.

The two students expelled last Tuesday have not been charged with any criminal complaints and will likely be dealt with outside the courts, according to Officer Cronin.

"We felt it best that the school would handle some aspects of the incident and the police department and alternative sentencing would handle the other aspects of this," Officer Cronin said.

"We did also recover some other mail-order items that were not illegal, but that might have been inappropriate. They were not age appropriate. And that's being handled on a parental level," Officer Cronin said.

Assemblies

Mr. Thomas addressed the student body in three separate assemblies at the High School on Wednesday, Nov. 10.

He talked to the students about their right to feel safe in school, to be able to learn in a safe environment, and their responsibility to ensure the safety of others. He also commended them for the manner in which they conducted themselves on Nov. 5 and during the follow-up investigation.

Trespass arrest

In an unrelated incident, Carmello Sapienza, 17, of 199 Greenwood Road, was arrested for trespassing at the High School on Wednesday, Nov. 9.

Mr. Sapienza was expelled from the school earlier this year for a drug possession violation and was not supposed to be on school property, according to Mr. Thomas.

Locker room theft

Another student was caught Monday, Nov. 15, after allegedly stealing money from pockets of clothing in the boys' locker room at the High School.

"We had a theft, a locker room theft," Mr. Thomas said Monday night.

The male student will be summoned to court on theft charges, according to police records and Mr. Thomas.

'They hit us with a few big plays and that was the game,' says coach Billerica High shuts out Andover on gridiron, 21-0

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High football team, long known for beating opponents with "the home run play," suffered through a night of role reversal against undefeated Billerica High last weekend at Lovely Field.

"They hit us with a few big plays and that was the game," said Golden Warriors' Head Coach Dick Collins. "Offensively we moved the ball pretty well against them, and defensively we contained (quarterback) Mike Mastrullo as well as anyone has all year.

"But we have this problem of shooting ourselves in the foot when we get down within scoring range," added Collins.

It all added up to a 21-0 Indians' victory, which clinched at least a share of a first-ever Merrimack Valley Conference football championship for Billerica.

Coach Peter Flynn's crew, 9-0 overall, can also secure its first Eastern Mass. Division 2A Super Bowl berth by beating Chelmsford (8-1-0) Thanksgiving morning. And, even if they lose, if Central Catholic defeats Andover on Turkey Day the Indians will qualify for the Bowl.

The only way Billerica won't go is if it loses to Chelmsford and Andover defeats Central, a scenario that would send Chelmsford to the Bowl for the second time in three years and fourth time since 1978.

The beauty of the inherently-explosive "run-and-shoot" offense, long

AFPO invites football enthusiasts to reunion Wednesday, Nov. 24

The Andover Football Parents Organization invites all past and present AHS football players, cheerleaders, their parents and friends to a Football Reunion on Wednesday, Nov. 24, from 7-8 p.m. at the Andover High gymnasium.

"When you have been involved with a quality program like Andover High football, the friendships you develop as a coach, player or parent go beyond the field or four years of high school," said Steve Muench, president of the AFPO. "The reunion will provide a convenient opportunity for the extended AHS football family to visit with friends at one place and time during the Thanksgiving holiday season."

There is no formal program planned for the evening.

The reunion is dedicated to providing a comfortable setting for friends and wishing the 1993 Golden Warriors well in their Thanksgiving Day game against Central Catholic.

Light refreshments will be served. For more information contact Steve Muench at 475-1632.

Tickets on sale for Thanksgiving Day game

Tickets for the Thanksgiving Day football game - Andover vs. Central Catholic - are on sale now through Monday, Nov. 22, from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. in the Athletic Office at 36 Bartlet St., and Tuesday and Wednesday, Nov. 23 and 24, from 6 to 8 p.m. in the Andover High School gym.

employed by Coach Collins and instituted at Billerica four years ago by Coach Flynn, is that you can stop it for nine consecutive plays and then get burned by a long-yardage TD pass or run.

"A simple counter-trap play hurt us the most," said Coach Collins. "It's my own play. We've been doing it since 1971. Billerica runs it a little differently, with several slight variations, but it's basically the same. Because of our youth and inexperience we were chasing the fullback (Rhondell Sawyer) while the tailback (Chris Burns) was doing all the damage."

Burns, who notched his eighth and ninth touchdowns of the season on first-half runs of 44 and 47 yards, led the Indians' 201-yard ground game with 164 yards in only nine carries.

Billerica scored all 21 points in the first half before the rivals played to a scoreless stalemate in the second half.

Win streak snapped

The loss in the final home game of 1993 left Andover at 2-6-1 overall, and snapped a seven-year, seven-game win streak against the Indians.

The shutout was the third suffered by the Golden Warriors this fall, the first time that's happened in almost two decades.

In fact, prior to this season, Andover had been shut out only once in 46 games (6-0 season-opener against Methuen last year).

The Golden Warriors have been outscored, 157-77. Andover teams have scored 200 or more points four straight years and last failed to score 100 points back in the 1960's, while the 157 points allowed are the most since the 1984 team surrendered exactly 200.

Andover ends the season, and a rugged three-game stretch against the league's top three teams, when it travels to Veterans Memorial Stadium in Lawrence to face Central Catholic (8-1-0) next Thursday (10 a.m.).

Coach Flynn, whose team has yielded only 25 points all year with its first defense allowing just two touchdowns, has ample respect for colleague Collins.

"The man has been a tremendous coach for many, many years and there

Charlie Russo's effort sparks AHS cross country team

By Rick Harrison

Sophomore Charlie Russo, whose potential appears unlimited, put his name alongside the best cross country runners in the state this fall when he finished seventh in the annual Eastern Mass. Division 2 Championships at Franklin Park in Boston.

Russo's superb individual effort sparked the Andover High boys team to a sixth place finish in a field of 32 schools, and prolonged his own season one more week as he became the only AHS harrier to qualify for this Saturday's All-State Meet in Northfield.

The top five teams in each division, plus the top seven individuals not on those teams, advanced to the All-States at the Northfield Mountain Recreation & Ski Area this weekend (11 a.m. start).

The Andover boys were one place away from qualifying as a group, finishing with 230 points to trail only team champ Gloucester (59 points), Wakefield (89) and hyphenated Whitman-Hanson (122), Dennis-Yarmouth (169) and Lincoln-Sudbury (190).

The Andover girls, with junior Captain Amanda Verreault's 45th place finish sparking the effort, were 12th in a field of 32 teams with 355 points.

Newton South won the Division 2 girls team title with a spectacular showing, sweeping the top three places and closing with 26 points.

Both the boys and girls races featured about 250 runners, and both were run over the 3.1 mile Franklin Park course used the previous week in the State Coaches Invitational.

The meet came off without a hitch, unlike last year when a computer snafu kept most of the runners in the dark for several days before the official times and places were determined.

Russo peaking

Charlie Russo's 16:02 clocking was just 31 seconds off the winning time of 15:31 turned in by individual race champ Jamey Bianchi of Natick.

It was also the best finish for any male runner from the Merrimack Valley Conference, with Chelmsford's Rob Therrien 15th, Lowell ace Brian Doyle 20th and Central Catholic No. 1 Ryan Fortune 21st in the Division 1 race. Those three are all seniors and none qualified for the All-State Meet.

Other league runners who did advance included girls Stacey Keane of Chelmsford (4th Division 1), Lowell sophomore Lisa Roy (6th Division 1) and the Tewksbury tandem of Kendra Hansford and Jennifer Lavallo (8th and 13th Division 2).

"Charlie is a very talented kid," said AHS Coach Leo Lafond. "He's hitting his peak right now, at just the right time. He ran for the varsity cross country and track (mile, two-mile) teams last year as a freshman, and he's had two solid months of training this fall."

Russo prefaced his impressive EMass. Division 2 effort by placing first in the final dual meet of the season at Wilmington, and finishing 23rd in the boys Sophomore race at the State Coaches Meet.

He also captured fifth in the State Coaches Freshman race last year.

"On Saturday Charlie, myself and probably several friends from North Andover will pile into a van and make the 2-hour ride to Northfield," said Coach Lafond. "And several of his teammates volunteered to run with Charlie at practices this week to help him stay sharp.

"The Northfield course is supposed to be pretty hilly and we expect that to be in Charlie's favor," added Coach Lafond.

Andover boys

Senior Captain Kevin Sharkey was the second harrier across the line for the AHS boys, placing 32nd overall in 16:37.

Also scoring for the Golden Warriors were junior Kevin Shepard, a half-stride behind Sharkey in 33rd place with the same time (16:37), sophomore Leo Blais 69th in 17:22 and junior Mark Adams 91st in 17:41.

Other competitors were senior Rick Crispo, 95th in 17:46, and senior Captain Max Dawson whose 18:19 clocking and 139th place finish didn't tell the whole story.

result's 20:41 time and 45th place finish pacing the effort.

Also scoring were senior Captain Melanie McGarry, 69th in 21:30, and three who came across just two seconds apart with freshman Shunda Graham 85th in 21:57, senior Captain Amanda Grasso 91st in 21:59 and freshman Lisa Daley 92nd in 21:59.

Also competing were freshman Melissa Ying, who made it four AHS girls only three seconds apart with a 22:00 clocking for 96th, and senior Madhavi Reddy 116th in 22:42.

Junior Football League season comes to a close

In the final week of the Andover Junior Football League season, the Colts remained unbeaten by defeating West Andover Redskins 12-6.

The Colts scored first on a Bill McPhee touchdown run. The Redskins came back with strong offensive blocking by Scott Ciruso, Charlie Daher, Dave Forzese and Rick Labbe. Rob Oppenheim scrambled 20 yards for a game-tying touchdown late in the fourth quarter.

On the very next play, Faith Penda returned a 50-yard kickoff to give the Colts the lead. Strong play was displayed by Redskins Tim Stitham, Dave Carroll, Bill Deluupcoming performance on Saturday, this capped a successful 1993 campaign for the Andover High harriers.

The boys placed second to Lawrence High in the Merrimack Valley Conference Small School Division, winning their last five meets for a 6-4-0 overall record.

The girls were runners-up to undefeated Tewksbury with a 5-4-0 mark, winning four of their last five dual- and tri-meets.

"I'm extremely pleased with the season," said Coach Lafond. "We had excellent depth, the kids worked very hard and this is a fine group of young adults."

"We have a lot of returnees around which to build next year's teams."

On the boys side Russo, Leo Blais, Kevin Shepard, Mark Adams and freshman Don Pattullo should form a solid 1994 nucleus, while the top graduates include Max Dawson and Kevin Sharkey.

The Lady Warriors have Amanda Verreault, Melissa Ying, Lisa Daley, Kelly Cronin, Ellen Buckley and Colleen Sheehy all eligible to return next fall, while Amanda Grasso and Melanie McGarry will definitely be missed.

Diana Liberty defends title successfully; swim team places 7th in championships

By Rick Harrison

The unsinkable Diana Liberty successfully defended her 500-yard freestyle title at the Eastern Mass. North Sectional Interscholastic Swimming and Diving Championships last weekend at Regis College in Weston, leading the Andover High girls to a seventh place finish in the team standings.

Miss Liberty, also the defending All-State titlist in that arduous distance event, added a second place finish in the 200 individual medley behind a meet-record performance by Acton-Boxboro High ace Sara Greenbaum.

Acton-Boxboro, the perennial North Sectional and State champ, blew the field away again with 298 points.

Also ahead of the Lady Warriors in the team standings were Merrimack Valley Conference mate Chelmsford (198.5), Haverhill (141), Lowell (129), Reading (113) and Westford Academy (93).

Andover scored 89 points, and rounding out the Sectional's top dozen schools were Notre Dame Academy of Tyngsboro (77), Lexington (71), St. Peter-Marian (62), Somerville (36.5) and Framingham (34).

It was practically an instant replay of last fall, when Miss Liberty won the 500 free and Andover placed seventh in the 21-team North Sectional field.

The season-ending All-State Meet is on tap this Saturday at Wellesley College, and Andover qualifiers scheduled to participate are Diana Liberty, junior Tracie Grant, Captain Mindy Fox, freshman Meghan Donahue and divers Lisa Cincotta, Kerry Brady, Joan Sunderland and Nicole Carpenter.

Liberty shines at Sectionals

Andover's sophomore sensation and future U.S. Olympic long-distance hopeful swam the 500, her specialty, in 5:12.34 to remain undefeated in this event during two years of high school competition.

The clocking was about two seconds slower than her winning time in this meet last November (5:10.13), but it was plenty good enough for the victory over second place Missy Schofield of Acton-Boxboro and freshman third place finisher Jenelle Bryan of Chelmsford.

In 1992 Diana beat arch-rival Sara Greenbaum by three seconds in the Sectionals, and then nudged the Colonials' standout by less than one second in a torrid duel at the All-State Meet (5:09.68 to 5:10.22) a week later.

Miss Greenbaum appears in top form as well, by-passing the 500 free at the Sectionals to emerge as the meet's lone double winner after capturing both the 200 IM in a meet-record 2:09.17 and the 100 yard butterfly in 1:00.06.

Diana Liberty was distant second in the 200 IM despite a strong 2:15.99 clocking, better than her meet-record time at the MVC Championships but more than six seconds behind the swift-stroking Greenbaum.

Tracie Grant also scored in two events for Andover, capturing fifth place in the 100 butterfly (1:02.21) and seventh place in the 200 IM (2:23.76).

Carrie Moran was 12th in the 100 yard backstroke (1:11.39).

The Lady Warriors scored in all three relays, placing fifth in the 200 medley, sixth in the 400 freestyle and 11th in the 200 freestyle.

The 200 medley squad consisted of Carrie Moran, Mindy Fox, Tracie Grant and Diana Liberty.

The 400 free crew included Liberty, Fox, Grant and Meghan Donahue, while the 200 free quartet was comprised of seniors Megan Miller, Whitney Bates, Mandy Wilson and sophomore Lindsay Bates.

MVC Meet wrapup

A number of individual times for Andover competitors at the Merrimack Valley Conference Championship Meet, and the names of relay team members, were not printed in last week's paper because of an early holiday deadline.

The Lady Warriors finished a solid third in the meet, behind undefeated regular season champ Nashua High and Chelmsford.

"Our 12 senior girls worked very hard towards this meet," said Coach Marilyn Fitzgerald. "We were shooting for at least fourth place. We wanted to beat Lowell for that spot, and we ended up ahead of both Lowell and Haverhill."

Andover's third-place 200 medley relay team, swimming together for the first time in this event, consisted of Diana Liberty, Mindy Fox, Tracie Grant and freshman Meghan Donahue.

The ninth place 200 medley squad included Carrie Moran, Ronit Shteiyyer, Nicole DeLisio and Kate Lennon with a time of 2:07.93.

The third place 400 freestyle relay team was also Donahue, Fox, Grant and Liberty, while ninth place in that event went to Megan Miller, Lindsay Bates, Whitney Bates and Mandy Wilson (4:11.01).

The sixth place 200 free relay quartet featured Miller, Lennon and the Bates sisters (1:53.49).

Mindy Fox's 2:31.28 clocking for ninth place in the 200 IM was a personal best.

Megan Miller's time for 12th place in the 50 free was 27.77.

In the 100 butterfly Meghan Donahue's ninth place clocking of 1:07.23 qualified her for the All-State Meet, while Tracie Grant's winning 1:02.70 was a personal best and allowed her to upset defending State champ Allyson Horgan of Haverhill.

Carrie Moran also produced a personal-best 1:10.30 for ninth place in the 100 backstroke, while Kerry Brady's 12th place point total in the one-meter diving was 149.05.

"The 100 breaststroke was the turnaround event for us," said Coach Fitzgerald. "We trailed Lowell by four points, but took three places to go ahead of them for good."

Breaststroke times not listed last week were Ronit Shteiyyer's 1:18.24 for seventh place and Mandy Wilson's 1:19.01 for ninth.

JV girls soccer team completes season

The junior varsity girls soccer team has completed another successful season with a 9-3-4 winning record. Captains Lauren Ofria, Cathy Zappala and Kelly Mitchell led the team over a rocky start to shut outs in 10 out of 16 games. Injuries sidelined sophomore Jen Alyward, Katie Aeder, Val Parker and junior Christina Babine for a good amount of time. After losses to Chelmsford, Wellesley and top-seeded Winchester, the team won the next nine out of 13 games with the other four resulting in ties. Included in the defeats were shutouts to rivals Billerica and Lowell and a tie to North Andover, which was 16-0 before challenging the Lady Warriors.

The speed, skill and accuracy of junior Kelly Mitchell, junior Jamie Barron and sophomore Erin Collins kept the pressure on to combine for 31 points. The skills and consistent support of midfielders junior Zappala and sophomores Shira Hermosa and Jen Schapira complemented each other's playing abilities to uphold an unbeatable midfield. Defenders juniors Ofria and Nicole Brooks, and sophomores Ashley Nowell, Amy DiDomenico and Aeder worked well to stop scoring chances. Sophomores Beth Lee and Jen Prudden shared duties in net, allowing only 14 goals and combining for 10 shutouts.

Sophomores Parker, Amy Hayner, Elaine Licata and Alyward and junior Babine turned in strong and consistent performances. The team is coached by Karl Lippmann.

ca, Mike Moran, Andy Gallagher, Austin Stefani and Paul Retieno.

Standout players for the Colts included Matt Kavanaugh, Chris Barry, Sam Dodd, Mike Giles and Austin Carroll.

The Bancroft Dolphins defeated Indian Ridge Raiders 32-0. Raiders Jonathan Fuhr, Brent Torre, Chris Milmore, Chris Rogers and Rick Sheldon played excellent football.

Touchdowns were scored by Nathan Ackerman, Erick Earle, Gordon Wade, Mark Russo, on a pass from Michael Reppucci, and Patrick Murnane. Craig Novick, Jeff Marshall, Greg Scott, Joshua Pisco and Charles Murnane played very well.

Ted Teichert, Ralph Dellatto, Dick Collins, Gwynne LoPresti, John O'Connor, Bill DeLuca, Andy Ellicott and Tom Marcella organized and coached the players in the league.

League president Lou LoPresti works hard to make youth football in Andover a success.

SPORTSTALK

Former Andover High three-sport All-Star Justin Hesenius (baseball-hockey-golf) was recently named the Massachusetts recipient of the 1993 Golden Diamond Amateur Junior Baseball Player-of-the-Year Award.

The annual honor is presented by USA Baseball to the 50 outstanding junior amateur players in the country, one in each state.

Hesenius, currently in his freshman year at Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla., was cited for "exceptional athletic skills, sportsmanship and exemplary character."

Hesenius, who also starred for several outstanding Andover Legion Post 8 baseball teams in the summer, was a pitcher-outfielder for Andover High and one of the few athletes ever to play four years of varsity baseball at the school.

He was an integral member of back-to-back State championship teams in 1991 and 1992, and last spring led the Golden Warriors to another Merrimack Valley Conference Large School championship and tournament berth.

He was 8-0 last year with five shutouts and 106 strikeouts in 61 innings. He threw one no-hitter, batted .391 and had a .710 slugging percentage.

This followed a junior season in which he hit well over .400 and won nine games on the mound.

Justin was also selected as the Massachusetts Division 1 Player-of-the-Year last spring, the third AHS baseball player so honored in four years (Chris Eggert, Jim Hanning), and was named the Massachusetts Gatorade "Player-of-the-Year" as well.

Andover teacher Leo Lafond, who coaches the high school boys and girls varsity cross country teams, has been named the new head girls varsity basketball coach at North Andover High.

Lafond, the Scarlet Knight boys JV coach for two years, succeeds Jack Stephenson who is now director of athletics, physical education and health for the North Andover school system.

Lafond, whose new position will not affect or conflict with his work in Andover, takes over a program that has been at or near the top of the Cape Ann League under Stephenson and former Coach Bob Parker for well over a decade.

Becky Robinson is a member of the field hockey team at Bryn Mawr College in Pennsylvania. Becky graduated from Andover High School and is a junior at Bryn Mawr.

Patrick O'Connell has been inducted into the Salem State College Athletic Hall of Fame for tennis.

His four-year combined singles/doubles record was 111-9. Patrick was a two-time team captain, named Co-MVP twice, was a three-time All-Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference (MASCAC) section, as well as a three-time MASCAC doubles champion and two-time MASCAC singles champion.

Nancy Hoffman is a member of the women's soccer team at Lake Forest College in Illinois. She is the daughter of Ms. Sandra Hoffman of 105 Wildwood Rd.

Ricki Garcia, of Andover, is competing in the USTA National Senior Championships in Mesa, Ariz.

She is a member of Cedardale Athletic Club's USTA League 50 and older Ladies Tennis Team, better known as the "Cedardale Fake ID's."

The team won the New England Sectional Championship this past spring.

Andover's Gretchen Fuhr captures third place at tri-state invitational meet

Gretchen Fuhr, a fifth-grade student at West Elementary School, took third place overall in the first annual Halloween Howl gymnastic invitational meet at the University of New Hampshire.

Gretchen led her team with a personal best of 35.9 points in the level six competition. Her team, Walker's Gymnastics and Dance of Lowell, took second place in the team competition. More than 40 girls from 11 teams representing Connecticut, New Hampshire and Massachusetts competed in the level six, children's division.

Gretchen tied for second place in individual honors with a 9.3 on beam. She also had a 9.15 on uneven parallel bars, 9.0 on floor exercise and 8.45 on the vault.

Two weeks ago Gretchen took second place overall in the USGF girls gymnastic state sectionals to earn a spot in the state competition to be held in early December.

In her first two meets this season, she has brought home a first-place and second-place trophy. Her parents are Joan Nolan-Fuhr and Ralph D-J Fuhr.

Hurricanes host annual Coke Meet

The Andover/North Andover YMCA Hurricanes swim team hosted the 1993 Coke meet sponsored by the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Salem, N.H., on Sunday, Nov. 7, at Greater Lawrence Vocational Technical High School pool. Eight YMCA swim teams from eastern Massachusetts participated in the event.

In the boys 8 and under category, Colin Higgins captured first place in the 100-yard individual medley, second place in the 25-yard butterfly and third in the 25-yard breaststroke. Eric Chung placed third in the 25-yard backstroke, while Sam Rulon-Miller placed second in the 25-yard breaststroke.

Patrick Rulon-Miller placed first in the 9- and 10-year-old 50-yard backstroke.

The 11-12-year-old boys placed in many events. Jim Russo was first in the 200-yard I.M., second in the 50- and 100-yard freestyle and third in the 50-yard backstroke. Nate Vantzeld placed first in the 50-yard butterfly third in the 50- and 100-yard freestyle. Cory Zalewski was third in the 50-yard butterfly.

In the 13- and 14-year-old action, Nick Vantzeld placed first in 50-yard freestyle and second in the 100-yard freestyle.

Andrew Wong won a third place in the 15- to 18-year-old 200-yard I.M.

The girls also placed in many events against large fields of swimmers. Christina Caselle had a first-place finish in the 8 and under 100-yard I.M. a second place in the 25-yard freestyle and a third in the 25-yard butterfly and breaststroke events. Dana Medaglio placed second in the 100-yard I.M. and 25-yard butterfly. Amy Caron won a second-place finish in the 25-yard backstroke.

Lauren Kapelson was a standout in the 9- and 10-year-old group, placing first in the 50-yard backstroke and breaststroke, second in the 100-yard individual medley and 50-yard freestyle and third in the 50-yard butterfly. Ellen Donahue placed second in the 50-yard butterfly and third in the 100-yard I.M.

In 11- and 12-year-old action, Greta Kaminski placed second in the 50-yard backstroke and third in the 200-yard I.M., while Alexis Caselle captured second place in the 50-yard breaststroke.

Lisa Wong placed first in the 13- and 14-year-old 100-yard breaststroke and 50-yard freestyle and second in the 200-yard I.M. and 100-yard backstroke.

In the girls 15- to 18-year-old category, Lawrence placed third in the 100-yard breaststroke.

The team is gearing up for the first dual meet of the season, set for Nov. 20 against the Old Colony YMCA.

Eighth-grade girls enter Tapoff Tournament

An eighth-grade girls team from Andover is entered in the fourth annual New England Tapoff Tournament, New England's largest youth basketball event. Seventy-four teams will play 148 games over the Thanksgiving weekend, with competition at Medway High School and Wheaton College in Norton.

Andover, coached by Dick Muller, will play at Wheaton against North Attleboro, New Bedford, Cranston, R.I., and Braintree. The roster includes Courtney Barron, Shannon Breen, Karma Ferguson, Julie Litzenberger, Charlotte Muller, Sarah Muller, Lura Orlando, Viki Pierce, Lauren Sweeney and Julie Viola.

The tournament includes teams from Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire and Rhode Island. Players will bring canned goods to be donated to needy senior citizens.

Area teams interested in entering the 1994 Tapoff Tournament can call 533-2271.

YOUTH SOCCER

Under 12 Division Sambas 1 - Tangos 1

Shannon Gillis scored the Sambas' goal off a pass from Katie Buckley. The Tangos came back with a goal by Allison James, with an assist from Elizabeth Asch.

Booster of the week: Jillian Mann, Robin Karfunkel and Amy Fenton (Tangos); Angeline Yang, Susie Anderson and Liz Tung (Sambas).

Nikes 3 - Mitres 0

BOW: Mary Ardini, Courtney Conlon, Sheena Patel and Ashley Plummer (Mitres); Stephanie Ataide, Michelle Leahy and Libby Driscoll (Nikes).

Reeboks 3 - Adidas 0

The Adidas kept the Reeboks scoreless during the first half.

Avias 1 - LA Gears 0

Julie Barenholtz scored for the Avias off an assist from Kristen Wilson. LA Gears goalie Elizabeth Demers did a tremendous job stopping goal attempts during the third quarter.

BOW: Rachel Hartman, Stephanie Price and Laura Rogers (Avias).

Under 10 Division Blackflies 2 - Dragonflies 2

"This was the most exciting game of the year," said Coach Carlson. Carolyn Purcell, assisted by Ashley Faulk, and Tristina Carlson, assisted by Molly Childs, scored for the Blackflies. Constant offensive pressure by the Blackflies in the last six minutes of the game yielded the tying goal.

BOW: Kaylan Tildsley, Leah Anciello and Tristina Carlson (Blackflies).

Beetles 4 - Ladybugs 2

Beetles' goals were scored by Christine Vanderheiden, Carrie Cronin and two by Katie Kramer. Molly Klarman played well in goal as did Jaclyn Alexander on defense.

BOW: Emily Cohen, Jenny Pirro and Meghan Toland (Beetles).

Grasshoppers 7 - Butterflies 1

Alice Gregory, Casey Luoma and Clara Robinson played well. Alison Shannon was missed.

Yellow Jackets 1 - Fireflies 2

Shannon Sweeney scored for the Yellow Jackets. Taryn Kalman and Jessica Monarca were strong in offense while Alia Hastings and Lindsey Durkin held the defense.

BOW: Coaches Haugh and Marsh.

PA TIDBITS

The Phillips Academy fall teams traveled to Phillips Exeter this past weekend and came home with two wins and four losses.

The girls' volleyball team won by a score of 3-2. Andover won the first and third matches and Exeter took the second and fourth. Andover won the fifth match 15-11 when server Francesca Antifonario nailed home an ace. Andover natives Jessie Drench and captain Laurie Galaburda played a great game. Their regular season record stood at 9-4 entering the New England Prep School tournament on Sunday. Phillips coasted to the finals against Cushing by winning five out of six games. Cushing won the first championship game 12-7 and Phillips won the second game 12-5. In the final match, Christina Costas served the winning points and Sharon Petranic killed the ball to bring the New England championship title to Andover. Coach Kathy Henderson praised Galaburda for her impressive back-row playing.

The girls' soccer team defeated Exeter 2-0. Jill Cassie began the scoring in the first minute of play on an assist by Nicole Rhodes. Rhodes nailed the crossbar on a direct kick and Cassie was there to knock in the rebound. Jennie Bradway of Andover assisted on a goal by sophomore Kate Schulte to secure the victory. Keeper Paige Heller posted her seventh shutout of the season. The girls ended the regular season with a 10-2-2 record. This secured them a first-place seed in the New England Prep School Tournament to be played this week. Abby Harris of Andover has played every position on the field, including goalie, and Leah Henderson, Meredith Philpot, Merry Rose and Emily Kalkstein have stifled their opponents' offenses. Captain Honor MacNaughton has notched three goals and four assists and Bradway has posted two goals and two assists. Hannah Pfeifle looks promising.

Despite their 1-0 loss to Exeter, the girls' field hockey team has qualified for the New England Tournament based on their 9-3-3 record. Earlier in the week, the squad shutout B.B.&N. 4-0. Local players include seniors Heidi Cline and Danielle Sadler and junior Jill Lewis.

Andover entered the football game with a 4-2 record and six consecutive victories over Exeter. Andover marched 72 yards for a touchdown by post-graduate Brendan Kennedy. They had 14 more points in the second half to establish a 21-0 lead. Team captain Todd Harris of Andover starred on defense with two interceptions in the second quarter. Exeter strung together four unanswered touchdowns in the second half to win the game 28-21. Andover's Brendan Kennedy carried the ball 20 times for 141 yards.

The boys' soccer team ended their season lost to Exeter 1-0 and ended the season with a 6-6-1 record. Earlier in the week, the boys defeated New Hampton Prep in overtime by a score of 2-1. Jan Moller and Matt Bower were the scorers.

The girls' cross-country team won the New England Prep School championship for the second year in a row by defeating

Thanksgiving dinner scraps are dangerous to pets

According to veterinarians at the MSPCA's Angell Memorial Animal Hospital, in Jamaica Plain, many animals are brought into the hospital at Thanksgiving time because of health problems brought on by eating holiday dinner scraps and turkey. Turkey and other rich foods may be tempting to share with pets, but intestinal problems can follow because of a dog and cat's sensitive digestive systems. Also, the fat content of these foods is unhealthy for pets who receive required amounts of food. Turkey bones are hard and can splinter, causing internal injuries when ingested. Trussing string, if eaten by pets, can cause severe intestinal blockages. Keep unhealthy dinner scraps away from tempted pets. Discard in a pet-proof container and provide safe, nutritious treats specially prepared for your pet.

Andover High students participate in Powder Puff

The Powder Puff football game was held last Saturday, Nov. 13, at Andover High School's Lovely Field.

Two teams of 30 girls, coached by the AHS varsity football team captains, headed to the gridiron to play flag football.

The Badgers were sponsored by the Student Government and the Bears were sponsored by the Student Advisory Council.

All proceeds raised were donated to the Amy Duarte Fund. Amy is the younger sister of AHS senior Trish Duarte, and is fighting leukemia.

is no such thing as an easy game against Andover," noted Flynn. "It's an honor and privilege to be on the same field with Dick, who not only is a terrific coach but an outstanding leader and mold of young men."

Burns finds daylight

The Indians' first drive stalled out at the Andover 20 yard line, but shortly thereafter Burns found daylight on a second-down misdirection play and raced 44 yards for the only points Billerica would need.

Mastrullo, who has also kicked 29 conversions this fall to go with 12 touchdowns (101 points) and eight TD passes, booted the first of his three PATs for a 7-0 lead with 1:21 to play in the first quarter.

Midway through the second period Burns scored on essentially the same play, this time going 47 yards, and Mastrullo's kick made it 14-0.

Mastrullo, 11-for-18 passing for 186 yards, went to the air late in the half and capped a quick four-play, 56-yard drive with a 10-yard TD strike to split end Rich Walukiewicz.

Walukiewicz was one of Mastrullo's two prime targets on the night, making six catches for 61 yards while Franklin Shearer added three receptions for 81 yards.

Billerica threatened again in the third period, after Shearer and Mastrullo hooked up on a 60-yard bomb, but the Warriors' defense held at the three yard line.

Injured return

Andover had everyone back healthy for the first time in a month, as senior end-defensive back and Captain Paul Allard (shoulder) and running back-defensive back Dave Jorgenson (knee) both returned to the lineup.

Allard caught five short passes for 29 yards and Jorgenson carried five times for 28 yards.

Toby Guzowski led Andover's ground attack with 41 yards in 12 carries, and he also snagged five passes while junior Brian Marshall had two receptions.

AHS exited the game in relatively good health, sophomore linebacker George Secchiari the lone casualty with a bruised shoulder.

Billerica finished with overall edges in first downs (15-9), yards rushing (201-95), yards passing (186-68), total yards from scrimmage (387-163).

While Burns had an outstanding night rushing the ball, Mastrullo was limited to 21 yards on eight carries and fullback Rhondell Sawyer to 13 yards on seven carries.

"Considering the caliber of the opposition we've really played two outstanding games the past two weeks," offered Coach Collins.

Andover will be the underdog again on Thanksgiving, a role that Collins does not necessarily relish.

Richard Bowen, of 12 Bannister Road and a former town manager, said residents have had to absorb the increase in the levy limit for the last two years and that he didn't want that to happen again this year with the $1.8 million increase. He became angry and, quite out of character for Mr. Bowen, raised his voice toward business owners who he said trivialized the discussion by giving it an us-versus-them slant.

"To suggest that there is any sort of war going on is baloney," Mr. Bowen said. "I don't want to hear it anymore and I won't."

He said he only sought fairness and equity in the tax process and that the tax shift provided that.

"Anyone who suggests to me that this town is not fair and equitable - it's simply not true," Mr. Bowen said.

Richard Asioan, of 29 Bateson Drive, an attorney who works with many businesses in town, said he hadn't planned on speaking but took offense to Mr. Bowen's allegations. Mr. Asioan said he had always admired Mr. Bowen and even wrote a college thesis on the town meeting process with Mr. Bowen's help. But Monday he said he was very disappointed to hear Mr. Bowen's comments.

"This is ridiculous for you to get up and say that. I'm really upset that you said that," Mr. Asioan said. "We all want to get treated fairly."

"I don't view it as you-against-me," Mr. Asioan said, adding that he is also a resident. "But don't unload on the business community."

Mr. Asioan said he was involved with a major industry that was looking to move here a couple of years ago, and which would have employed 1,000 people, but that after investigating Andover's tax rate, the business decided to go elsewhere. He wouldn't name the business.

The exchange between Mr. Bowen and Mr. Asioan was probably the peak of the discussion, but several of the roughly 25 other residents and business owners at the meeting took issue with the fairness of the recently completed property revaluation and the policy of using a tax classification shift.

What is tax classification?

The purpose of Monday night's hearing was to give residents and business owners an opportunity to express their concerns regarding tax classification to the selectmen, who will vote on the town's tax rate for Fiscal 1994 at their next regular meeting, Monday, Nov. 29.

The tax classification shift is a mechanism the town uses to balance the portion of the town's tax levy, the amount raised through property taxes, that will be paid by residential and commercial and industrial property owners. Since the town began using a tax shift, it has maintained a roughly 65/35 ratio, with 65 percent of the town's tax levy being paid by residential property owners and 35 percent paid by commercial and industrial property owners. Last year the ratio was about 66/34 with a 120 percent shift, meaning C/I property was taxed at 120 percent of its value. The shift would have to go to about 150 percent this year, according to William Krajewski, town assessor, to maintain a 65/35 ratio due to a 25 percent drop in the assessed value of C&I property from last year.

At last year's 120 percent shift, C/I property was taxed at $18.36 per $1,000 in fiscal 1993. Residential property was taxed at $14.10 per $1,000.

For fiscal 1994, if the 120 percent shift were maintained, the residential tax rate would be $15.85 and the C/I would be $20.21. A 150 percent shift would result in a residential tax rate of $14.37 and a C/I tax rate of $25.26.

During a presentation at the hearing, Mr. Krajewski said his office used occupancy rates and the few sales that have occurred for C/I property to find a "fair market values" for those properties. C/I property values were lowered an average of 10 percent each of the last two years to respond to dropping market values, but it wasn't until a few sales occurred earlier this year that he was able to pinpoint the market value, Mr. Krajewski said. Sale prices for some industrial properties dropped as much as 50 percent, Mr. Krajewski said.

Failure to increase the tax shift would put a greater tax burden on residential property owners. The law prevents the town from going above a 150 percent shift in one year.

The town's total property value of about $2.7 billion is down 1.6 percent from last year, Mr. Krajewski said. Residential value is up about 2.3 percent, mostly due to new construction.

The levy

The tax levy will go up about $2 million this year, to about $44 million, or about 4.3 percent. New growth, the value of buildings just built and added to the tax base this year, contributed to the increase.

Revaluation complaints

Mary Carbone, of 3 Cyr Circle, took issue with the property revaluation process and said she didn't think it was right that Patriot Properties, the firm hired by the town to perform revaluation inspections, conducted only the residential property inspections while the assessor and his staff inspected C/I properties.

Mr. Krajewski said Patriot's role was to collect information on the residential properties, but the assessor and the Board of Assessors set the values of all properties in town.

Ms. Carbone also took issue with the number of C/I tax abatements the assessor allows.

"We abate less than 1 percent in terms of total taxes in any given year," Mr. Krajewski said.

The majority of abatement requests are for residential properties, the assessor said, although the commercial abatement requests concern more significant dollar amounts.

Walker and Helen Wertheimer, 49

C/I property values have dropped

'They have gone down because they are worth less, period. That should be the end of the discussion.'

Gregory Doyle, who owns a business and a home in Andover

Shipman Road, felt their house was outside the norm for the revaluation because it went up 15 percent in value, one of about 7 percent of homes in town that did so. They questioned what criteria is used to determine a "desirable neighborhood." Mr. Wertheimer said he thought it was important for people how their own property value fared compared with other property owners.

Mr. Krajewski said criteria such as traffic flows affect values.

Tax shift discussion

But most of the discussion was on the shift in the rate and how it affects residents and businesses.

Enzo Fossella, owner of Enzo's of Andover men's clothing store on Main Street and a member of the Andover Chamber of Commerce, said that the town should not take industry for granted, and that vacancy rates should be taken into consideration when selectmen decide what message they want to send to businesses. He also said that, regardless of what tax shift was used this year, he wanted town officials and businesses to get together afterward and try to find a more equitable way of setting a consistent tax rate. Several other business people agreed.

Russell and Greg Doyle, father and son owners Doyle Lumber Co. on River Road, both spoke in favor of reducing the tax shift. Greg Doyle said there is a reason C/I property values have dropped.

"They have gone down because they are worth less, period. That should be the end of the discussion," the younger Mr. Doyle said.

The town should not continue to melt the "cash cow called commercial industrial property," he said.

The reason it is difficult to maintain the 65/35 ratio is because the number of residential properties is increasing while the number of commercial properties is not, he said.

"So of course that shift is going to be more," Mr. Doyle said.

"I think 120 percent at the moment is already too high," Mr. Doyle said.

"The underlying problem here is the annual increase in the budget," said Christine Holmes, of 14 Whispering Pines.

If the town didn't raise the budget to take full advantage of the levy limit each year, the tax burden could be reduced, she said. She has never heard a selectman suggest not increasing the budget to the maximum possible under Proposition 2 1/2, she said.

Ms. Holmes also said that, because C/I property has been dropping in value for the last few years, C/I property owners have paid less taxes despite the tax shift. She also said she didn't want to have to absorb the mistakes of commercial investors who built on speculation in the 1980s and are now losing money.

"They made an investment choice. I don't want to pay for that mistake because they made the wrong one," Ms. Holmes said.

Mr. Fossella countered that up until 1985, there was no tax shift used in Andover, so businesses didn't have to consider that gamble when moving here.

Bob Macartney, of Argilla Road and owner of the now-closed Macartney's men's clothing stores, said he had to respond to a comment that businesses are in business for profit.

"If business were so profitable, I'd probably still be in it," Mr. Macartney said.

Mr. Macartney said only 10 of 34 towns in Essex County use a tax shift, and that the 120 percent shift used here really means businesses pay a tax rate that is 30 percent more than residential rates.

"As far as Mr. Bowen goes, he calls that equity," Mr. Macartney said.

"I didn't call that anything, Bob. Don't put words in my mouth," Mr. Bowen said.

Charlie Smith, vice president of operations at Brockway-Smith Co., 146 Dascomb Road, said 100 percent, no shift, would be equitable. Mr. Smith said that some people's attitude is - if you don't like it move.

"It's not that easy," Mr. Smith said.

Several businesses are locked into the community even more than Brockway, he said, otherwise the enticement of moving to southern New Hampshire might get them to move.

"I call this law an ugly law, Russell Doyle said.

The elder Mr. Doyle spoke at length about the inequity of the tax shift and said one option for him would be to sell his 11 acres to Greater Lawrence Technical School for an expansion. Since the school pays no taxes, the town would lose the taxes he now pays on the land's $1 million to $1.5 million value.

...Mr. Doyle did say that he didn't want to have to consider making such a decision.

Frames Unlimited

Frames Unlimited is the one stop for all your framing needs. They are very proud of the quality they offer on an everyday basis. Joel believes that word of mouth advertising is very important. "We've been at this location for twelve years because of satisfied return customers and referrals from these customers who appreciate the personal service."

Frames Unlimited stocks a large selection of ready-made frames of all sizes as well as over 10,000 feet of molding to custom make any size you may need.

"We've already begun to do a lot of framing for Christmas" states Steve. Joel thinks shoppers may be a little cautious with some of the business predictions of late, and are shopping earlier to spread things out a little. "A gift of a frame is something people keep forever."

Frames Unlimited "Artist of the Month" program has been very well received. Casual shoppers enjoy the opportunity to see and purchase local art. Any artists interested in displaying their work are welcome to inquire. This offer is at no cost or commission. This month's artists are watercolors by Rosemary Hogarty and hand made pottery by Betty Foley.

Frames Unlimited is well known for their expertise in

- Fine arts preservation
- Canvas stretching
- Creative matting
- Stretching needle art
- Dry mounting
- Glass replacement
- Custom framed mirrors
- Object frames

They are conveniently located in Shawsheen Plaza with plenty of free parking. Store hours: Tues, Wed and Sat 10:00 am to 5:00 pm, Thur and Fri 10:00 am to 8:00 pm and closed on Sun and Mon. Telephone: 508/470-0432.

MORTGAGEE'S OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain Mortgage Deed given by Leslie A. Cooper to Home Savings of America, F.A. dated August 26, 1988 and recorded with the Essex County (Northern District) Registry of Deeds in Book 2795, Page 229 of which mortgage the undersigned is the present holder, for breach of the conditions of said Mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing, the same will be sold at Public Auction at 10:00 a.m. on the 10th day of December A.D. 1993, on the mortgaged premises located at 16 Balmoral Street, Unit 219 in the Balmoral Condominium, Andover, Essex County, Massachusetts, all and singular the premises described in said Mortgage.

TO WIT
Condominium Unit No. 219 in the Condominium known as Balmoral Condominium, situated at 16 Balmoral Street, Andover, Massachusetts, created by a Master Deed dated July 17, 1981, recorded with the Essex North Registry of Deeds in Book 1519, Page 13, as amended.

The unit is more particularly described (1) in the Master Deed, (2) such site and floor plans as have been recorded or filed therewith, (3) in the first Unit Deed thereof and (4) copies of portions of such site and floor plans filed therewith. The unit is conveyed together with an undivided 87.6 percent interest in the common areas and facilities of the Condominium and the same 87.6 percent interest in the Organization of Unit Owners known as Balmoral Condominium Trust created by an instrument dated, July 17, 1981, and recorded with the Essex North Registry of Deeds in Book 1519, Page 36 as amended.

Said Unit is also conveyed together with the exclusive right to use Parking Space No. 55 as shown on the Condominium Plan, which exclusive right is appurtenant to said Unit, subject to the provisions set forth in Section 6 of the Master Deed. Being the same premises conveyed to me by deed Craig N. Adler and recorded immediately prior hereto.

Said premises will be sold subject to/or with the benefit of any and all restrictions, easements, improvements, covenants, taxes, assessments, liens or claims in the nature of liens, and existing encumbrances of record created prior to the Mortgage, if any, there be. A deposit of Six Thousand dollars in cash, certified check or bank check will be required to be paid by the purchaser at the time and place of sale with the balance of the purchase price to be paid within 30 days thereafter.

MORTGAGEE'S NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL ESTATE

By Virtue and in execution of the Power of Sale contained in a certain mortgage given by Eugene V. Zaffini and Geraldine V. Zaffini to Progressive Consumers Federal Credit Union dated April 20, 1989, recorded with Essex County (Northern District) Registry of Deeds, Book 2920, Page 030, of which mortgage the undersigned is the assignee and present holder, for breach of the conditions of said Mortgage and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold at Public Auction at 2:00 P.M. on December 14th, 1993, on the mortgaged premises as below described, being known as 10 Dascomb Road, Andover, Essex County, Massachusetts, all and singular the premises described in said mortgage.

To Wit:
The land at 10 Dascomb Road, Andover, Essex County, Massachusetts, being shown as Lot A1 on a plan entitled "Plan of Land in Andover, Mass., showing a change in Lot Lines", dated July 12, 1983, Owner T. Wilson, et ux, & P. Chialdini, et ux, by Andover Consultants, Inc., recorded with Essex North District Registry of Deeds, Plan No. 9230.

SAID PREMISES ARE SUBJECT TO THE FOLLOWING ENCUMBRANCES:

1. Title to and rights of the public and others in so much of the premises as lies within the bounds of Dascomb Road and Andover Street.
2. Deed to the inhabitants of the Town of Andover, dated June 8, 1950, recorded with said Deeds, Book 737, Page 88.
3. Taking by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts County Commissioners for the relocation of Dascomb Road and for a slope easement, dated May 31, 1960, recorded with said Deeds, Book 916, Page 26.
4. Taking by the County Commissioners for the layout of Andover Street, dated September 14, 1971, recorded with said Deeds, Book 1179, Page 782.
5. Notice of Variance by the Town of Andover Board of Appeals, dated March 6, 1987, recorded with said Deeds, Book 2465, Page 003.

6. Order of Conditions by the Andover Conservation Commission recorded with said Deeds, Book 1605, Page 127, as affected by a Certificate of Compliance, recorded with said Deeds, Book 1715, Page 259.

7. Twenty (20) foot wide sewer easement more particularly set forth in a Deed to Douglas R. Millin, et al, Trustees, dated April 11, 1983, recorded with said Deeds, Book 1666, Page 258, as shown on a plan entitled "Plan of Easement and Andover, Mass." dated February 23, 1983, recorded with said Deeds as Plan No. 9079.

Subject to and with the benefit of easements, reservations, restrictions, and takings of record if any, insofar as the same are now in force and applicable.

For our title see deed from Thomas J. Wilson and Claire E. Wilson, dated May 26, 1987 and record in Essex North Registry of Deeds in Book 2656 Page 298.

The above premises will be sold subject to all outstanding tax titles, municipal or other public taxes, assessments, betterments, or liens, if any, and unpaid condominium fees and charges which are or may become a lien, if any.

TERMS OF SALE

Ten Thousand ($10,000.00) Dollars will be required to be paid in cash or by Certified Check by the Purchaser at the time and place of sale as earnest money. The balance of the purchase price is to be paid in cash or by Bank Cashiers Check or Bank Treasurers Check or Certified Check upon delivery of the deed within thirty (30) days of the date of sale at the office of Donald H. Carvin, Esquire, 44 Adams Street, Braintree, Massachusetts. The successful bidder to sign a Written Memorandum of Sale upon acceptance of bid. In the event that the successful bidder at the foreclosure sale default according to the terms of this Notice of Sale and/or fail to comply with any terms of the Memorandum of Sale executed at the time of the foreclosure, by failing to complete the purchase or otherwise, the Seller retains the option, at Seller's sole discretion, to complete the sale by selling the Premises, subject to the terms and conditions of sale stated therein, to the next highest, qualified bidder. Other terms will be announced at the sale.

Driscoll's Package Store

Driscoll's Package Store is again celebrating the holidays with their second annual "Gobbler Giveaway" to thank their customers. Ten turkeys will be given away. Just fill in the entry form at the store and drop it in the box.
Winners will be notified on November 19th.

"Driscoll's Part Plan" is designed to assist the customer with entertaining for the holidays. They offer catering for home parties or functions and provide beverages and also bartenders and servers, if you choose. Not only do they deliver, but will take back everything that is not open so that anticipating how much beverage is needed is not so critical. They offer a unique catering plan, which will serve small intimate groups or parties as large as four hundred.

Every Friday evening, Driscoll's Package Store hosts informal wine tasting on the premises.

Driscoll's is family owned and operated by the Rutkowski family of Andover. Jack and Diane are the proprietors, daughter Juli is the Fine Wine and Spirits Manager and son Jon manages the Imported and Domestic Beers.

Driscoll's carries all standard brands of fine wines, beers and spirits.
They stock champagne from moderately priced to the best available. They carry a wide variety of domestic, imported and an ever expanding variety of boutique beers. Their specialty is fine wines and spirits. They carry holiday gift baskets, hand crafted wreaths and bears.

The Rutkowskis are dedicated to offering excellent service, friendly atmosphere and innovative ideas. They enjoy meeting their customers, welcome calls and are eager to know what they can do to please. They are community conscious and advocate moderation in drinking.

Driscoll's Package Store delivers.
They are located at the corner of Bartlett and Barnard Streets. Hours are Monday through Saturday 9:00 am to 10:00 pm and Sunday noon to 5:00

Recycle

DO YOU HAVE an item or items that you no longer need, but that would be useful to someone else, something you'd be willing to give away if someone would come get it? For instance: boxes, storm windows, a child's bicycle, cardboard boxes, an old set of dishes.

You can list your recyclable items in the Townsman's newest classified section: "RECYCLE". (FREE of charge!) It's a way to clean up your place while acknowledging the world is running out of landfill space. Simply write up listing your recyclables and we'll print them in the paper. No phone calls please.

MAGAZINES: National Geographic (Jan. 87-Dec. 89); The Economist (Feb. 91-Dec. 92); Business Week (Aug. 92-July 93). Free. Come pick them up. 474-0691.

GENERAL INFORMATION

DEADLINE: Noon Tuesday.
CANCELLATIONS: Must be received by Monday 5 p.m. No exceptions.
ERRORS: It is the advertiser's responsibility to check ads for corrections upon first insertion. The Andover Townsman will only be responsible for one incorrect ad insertion and then only to the extent that the error affects the response rate of the advertisement.

WRITING AN EFFECTIVE AD

1. Start your ad with the merchandise you are selling or service you are offering. This makes it easier for the reader to locate your advertisement.
2. Always include the price of the item you are selling. Many readers will not respond to an ad that has no price included.
3. Place yourself in the reader's position. Include specific descriptions and you will get a quicker response.

CLASSIFIED/REAL ESTATE

The Kimball House 50 School Street Andover

Charming 12 room, Center Hall Victorian built in 1869. 7 bedrooms, 3.5 baths. Lot size: 27,690; Square footage: 4900. Modern eat-in kitchen and adjacent family room. Off the family room are French doors that open to a nicely detailed porch/deck. Four working antique fireplaces warm the master bedroom, the library, the dining room and the formal living room. This gracious in-town home in the Phillips Academy area also offers an open air widow's walk for private sun bathing and spectacular views of Andover. The third floor, completely finished with separate heating systems and bathroom, presently function as the Au Pair quarters. The large two story attached barn with all the classic rustic detail also serves as a two car garage and provides tremendous space for storage and workshop. The tasteful landscaping with a new stone wall retains the gardens that surround the house and blossom in the spring with over 1000 tulip and daffodil bulbs. The new majestic Victorian fence that fronts School Street allows elegant passage to the main entrance of the house via a herring bone brick walkway.

Vocal artist Joe Williams comes to Andover

wood Walk of Fame.

"With Coleman, it was a marvelous thing because he was a fan first," said Mr. Williams. After six months of coming to see the singer perform, Mr. Hawkins asked him to "come with him for double the amount of money" he was then making.

"I didn't realize he was paying such close attention," said Mr. Williams.

Following his time with Coleman Hawkins' Big Band, in 1943 Mr. Williams joined the Lionel Hampton band and sang alongside Dinah Washington. However, it was not until he became Count Basie's number-one son that this son of the South Side became an international icon.

"Basie - that was, like, the experience. We worked together for six years, traveling all over the world," he said.

While Mr. Williams was never one to push the musical envelope in terms of experimentation, it was with the Count Basie Orchestra that he helped make the blues a for-the-times more palatable and dignified crossover sensation.

Mr. Williams also had a special and long-running relationship with Duke Ellington, which started with him listening to the Duke on the radio as a boy.

"Oh, yes. I was a fan of his since the '30s. I saw him in his motion pictures and heard him on the radio," said Mr. Williams. The vocalist still remembers the first time he saw the Duke live, sitting at the edge of the stage with Joe Louis.

'There's an intimacy about singing when someone is holding someone else in their arms, which is why schools have proms.'

Joe Williams

"Then I met him in 1942. I met him backstage at the Oriental Theater in Chicago. I finally got to sing with him many years later in Detroit for a week at a club there."

Now, years after leaving the Count Basie Orchestra, Mr. Williams has joined with them again for a benefit for the Barry L. Price Rehabilitation Center, which provides services and training to increase functional independence for mentally-retarded adults. It is the first time in more than a decade he has been reunited with the Count Basie Orchestra in New England.

"When you get older, it's time to leave home. Many people came through there," he said of his original decision to leave the orchestra. "All of us at some point come back and do things with the band because of the love of the music. It's always fun to be with that group."

Though winding down this year's tour, Mr. Williams has a series of concerts set up to begin in April of next year, and has plans for three albums. When asked if there is anything left in his career he would still like to do, he said, "We're doing it. We're working on a spiritual album with Telarc Records, our recording company." An album of symphony-backed numbers is also in the works.

"But George Shearing, he's most enthusiastic about what we're doing right now," he said. Thus, a live album cut on next year's tour is also planned.

Mr. Williams' plans are not tied to just singing, since he says he is willing to change hats if the right acting role comes along. The baritone most recently played the part of Grandpa Al, the father of Claire Huxtable, on NBC's The Cosby Show.

"I was kidding Bill about the part,"

he said. "I said, 'Bill, I think you ruined my career.'"

Mr. Williams said that he was a grandfather when he was given the role on The Cosby Show, but now that he's a great-grandfather, there's nothing out there for him.

"Nobody's writing parts for great-grandfathers," he laughed. "The writers, they do it to you, you know."

All of which is good news for his fans, because he'll have to stay on stage. And after more than half a century of performing, most of it during a lauded solo career, Mr. Williams still says he feels obligated to give his best every night "since they're spending their most precious gift - time - with you."

Even though there isn't much dancing at his concerts, Mr. Williams' goal still seems to be to draw people together and make them feel close. The music is still the thing.

"You're relating to people with warmth and intimacy," he said. When "songs make them feel intimate, it's a good feeling."

Tickets are $175 per person and include a charitable donation to the rehabilitation center, the buffet dinner at 6:30, and the 8:30 performance by Mr. Williams and the Frank Foster-led Count Basie Orchestra.

Tickets are available by calling the Ramada Hotel Rolling Green at 475-5400, or the Barry Price Rehabilitation Center at (617) 332-7477.

Center Association Holiday Open House will be Dec. 3

Ho! Ho! Ho! It's almost that time once again.

Soon family and friends will get together for the holidays, sharing the holiday spirit and family traditions that make this time of year so special. What better place to begin this season's merrymaking than at the Holiday Open House downtown?

On the evening of Friday, Dec. 3, Main Street will be blocked off from 6 to 10 p.m. for the Andover Center Association's annual Holiday Open House. Carolers singing holiday tunes will replace the din of traffic, and a horse-drawn hayride will be the vehicle of choice on Main Street.

Ice sculptures, Christmas karaoke and the Andover Garden Club's Festival of Trees will provide lots to see and do. The Salvation Army will collect for those in need, and even the jolly old elf himself, Santa Claus, will make a special trip to Andover to see who's been naughty or nice.

Free refreshments will be served inside the stores.

This year, stores will be open from 6 to 10 p.m. on Friday, Dec. 3, for the event.

Ice sculptures, Christmas karaoke and the Andover Garden Club's Festival of Trees will provide lots to see and do. There will also be complimentary refreshments in the stores.

Contemporary quilt exhibit opens this weekend

Celebrations of the Season, an exhibition of 25 contemporary quilts by New England quilt artists, opens Saturday, Nov. 20, at the New England Quilt Museum, 18 Shattuck St., Lowell. The quilts will be on display through Sunday, Jan. 2.

The exhibition presents a range of quilt types including memory, landscape and celebration quilts. All the quilts were made over the past 15 years by quilters from each of the six New England states using innovative approaches to traditional quilt patterns as well as original quilt designs.

"Celebrations of the Season not only reflects the many moods and images that make up the holiday season," said Barbara Meyer, the museum's managing director. "It also articulates the incredible richness of the quilting tradition. Over the generations women have found many different reasons to make quilts, to express what they see and what they feel. This exhibit, during our first holiday season in the new Quilt Museum, is a celebration which connects us to all quilters - past, present and future."

Highlights include Who Are We? Where Do We Come From? Where Are We Going? by renowned quilter Ruth MacDowell of Winchester; Winter View depicting Waldoboro, Maine, quilter Beverly Sly's view from her sewing room; Hana's All Around, a group quilt made for the 15th birthday of the Children's Museum of Rhode Island; Children of Israel by Sheila Groman; Winter Frost at Enumasam by Takako Masamune; Cliff's Quilt, a winter landscape by Putney, Vt., quilter Eliza

Greenhoe-Bergh; Partridge, a quilt depicting the 12 days of Christmas by Killingworth, Conn., artist Sandra E. Smith; and Surprise Me, Portsmouth, N.H., artist Susan Carlson's portrait of her husband, Tom, and his two best friends at a birthday celebration.

Some quilts are personal pieces never before exhibited; others are ribbon winners from quilt shows around the country. The exhibition was organized for the museum by Verena Rybicki and Suzanne Knapp.

Ornament Day

In conjunction with this show, the New England Quilt Museum will present Ornament Day on Sunday, Dec. 5, from 1 to 3 p.m. Learn to make quilt ornaments, free with museum admission. Supplies will be provided.

The museum is a private, non-profit corporation supported by members' dues, admission charges, museum-store sales, private donations and gifts and grants from foundations, corporations and government agencies including the Lowell Historic Preservation Commission and the Lowell Cultural Council.

The museum is open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday-Saturday, and Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. Admission is $3 for adults, with discounts for students and senior citizens and free for New England Quilt Museum members. Visitor parking is available at meters on Shattuck and Middle streets and a City of Lowell parking garage on Market Street. Handicapped spaces are available in the building lot.

Crafts fairs start today and continue through the holidays

The annual New England Memorial Hospital Auxiliary Holly Fair is today, Thursday, Nov. 18, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The fair has crafts by more than 25 local artisans, holiday decorations, greeting cards and wreaths, "timeless treasures," gourmet foods, baked goods and more.

The public is invited to browse through the hospital lobby. The hospital is located at 5 Woodland Road in Stoneham. Parking is free.

Andover seniors' fund raiser

The Andover Council on Aging will hold a Holiday Bazaar and Flea Market at the Senior Center on Whittier Court Saturday, Nov. 20, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Hand-made crafts and seasonal items, raffles, baked goods and refreshments will be featured at the bazaar. Santa will be available for the children.

The flea market will have household items, furniture, books, craft supplies and clothes.

DCS at Old Town Hall

The Department of Community Services hosts its Holiday Craft Show Sunday, Dec. 12, at Old Town Hall on Main Street, from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Crafters are needed for the fourth annual show. Applications are available at Community Services. For more information call 470-3800, ext. 280.

North Andover

Members of Trinitarian Congregational Church, 72 Elm St., North Andover, are planning their annual craft fair for this Saturday, Nov. 20.

The event will run from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. The lunch room will sell hot dogs and dessert throughout the day.

Besides the hand-made craft items offered by New England craftspeople and the Women's Fellowship of Trinitarian Church, treasures from "Granny's Attic" will be for sale, and there will be a silent auction.

A "Kids' Corner" will have items of interest to children and there will be photos with Santa.

Call DCS at 470-3800 for details.

Last year's Christmas tree at Brickstone Square drew large crowds.

Brickstone has largest tree

Marshall's holiday celebration and lighting of the Brickstone Christmas tree, the largest Christmas tree in the USA, will be held Sunday, Nov. 28, from 5 to 7 p.m. at Brickstone Square at the corner of York and Haverhill streets.

Join WBZ's Tom Bergeron and Boston Bruins center Adam Oates for the 6 p.m. lighting of the 91-foot tree. Musical entertainment, complimentary refreshments, a holiday sing-along and Santa Village will be sponsored by Marshalls and Brickstone Square.

There may even be a visit by Frosty the Snowman, Rudolph the red nose reindeer and some of Santa's other friends.

A Toys for Tots donation station will hold new toys for needy children. The toys should not be gift wrapped.

The tree

This year's tree is a 91-foot Norway Spruce and is the largest Christmas tree in the country. It's larger even than the 85-foot tree at the Rockefeller Center in New York and the Christmas tree at Disneyworld in Florida, according to Brickstone officials.

The tree will be cut in Methuen tomorrow, Friday, Nov. 19, and delivered by truck to Brickstone. Workers will use a crane to stand it upright during the weekend, then begin decorating it with 15,000 multi-colored light bulbs, 450 silver and gold balls and bells, and 300 maroon and antique-white bows with gold backing.

Giant illuminated presents, 64 wreaths, an 11-foot sleigh, ice sculptures and an animated Santa's Village will also be on display.

Chainsaw carving

Hal MacIntosh, a chainsaw carver, will again spend three days carving last year's tree into figures. Beginning on Monday, Nov. 22, and finishing at about noon on Wednesday, Nov. 24, Mr. MacIntosh will carve a Santa's chair, elves and possibly likenesses of Mr. and Mrs. Claus.

These will be added to the carolers carved last year for the growing Santa's Village.

Andover Garden Club hosts Festival of Trees

The Andover Garden Club will present its annual Festival of Trees the weekend of Dec. 3-5 at Old Town Hall on Main Street.

Hours for the festival are: Friday, Dec. 3, noon-4 p.m. and 6-9 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 4, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.; Sunday, Dec. 5, noon-4 p.m.

Proceeds from this event will be used for Andover Garden Club's civic beautification projects.

A raffle drawing will be held Sunday, Dec. 5, at the closing of the festival. First prize is a pair of his and her Lassale watches. Second prize is a women's gold-filled Cross pen and pencil set. Third prize is a Howard Miller clock.

Royal Jewelers has donated the raffle prizes, and tickets may be purchased at Royal Jewelers, the Festival of Trees or from Pam Orlandella at 475-0047.

Phillips Academy tips off season with song

The holiday season at Phillips Academy begins Sunday, Dec. 5, with A Ceremony of Lessons and Carols at 4:30 p.m. at the Cochran Chapel.

The words and music are led by members of the Protestant and Catholic communities, Academy Chorus and Fidelio Society.

On Friday, Dec. 10, at 7 p.m., a concert consisting of J. S. Bach (Contata) and G. F.

Handel (Excerpts from the Messiah) performed by the Andover Community Chorus and Chamber Orchestra, with William Thomas, director.

The concert benefits the Greater Lawrence Habitat for Humanity and the Neighbors in Need food pantry.

Admission is $5 for adults, and senior citizens and students need only a canned or non-perishable food donation.

Hal MacIntosh carves a caroler last year at Brickstone Square. Carving will be done Nov. 22-24 this year. Spectators are welcome.

Main Street, above, was lined with residents for last year's Christmas Parade and, right, despite a lack of snow, Santa did not disappoint them.

Christmas Parade in town is Nov. 28

The 38th annual Andover Firefighters Christmas Parade will be held Sunday, Nov. 28, at 1:30 p.m.

The rain/snow date is Sunday, Dec. 5.

The parade begins on Whitter Street and continues onto Elm Street to Main Street to Puncard Avenue and returns to town offices.

A parade committee spokesman said all past parades have been successful and last year's parade was very successful since the weather cooperated and thousands of people came out to watch.

Anybody who wishes to participate in the parade can call the parade committee at 470-0262.

Andover Bank joins Marines in collecting Toys for Tots donations

Even Santa Claus needs a little help during the busy holidays and in the spirit of the season, Andover Bank has again joined with the U.S. Marine Corps in the Toys for Tots program.

Toys for Tots was conceived in 1947 by Marine Corps Reserve Major William Hendricks.

The program began as a local event to aid the orphaned children of World War II. The U.S. Marine Corps has since expanded its Toys for Tots mission to enrich the lives of culturally deprived children across the nation.

Since its inception, more than 70 million toys have been distributed to the underprivileged children of America. Every year, not enough toys are collected to fill all the requests.

Needy families in all communities write to the Marine Corps Reserve asking for toys. The Marines in turn match-up toys with those requests.

Everyone can participate in this program. Andover Bank has designated each of its banking offices as official Toys for Tots collection sites. A decorated collection box will be set up in each branch office between Nov. 22 and Dec. 16 to drop off toys.

The Marines are asking for new ($5 minimum value), unwrapped toys suitable for toddlers or teens, boys or girls. No food, perishables or cash should be dropped in the collection box.

Next week, The Good Life, "A Retirement Guide," a special section in the Townsman.

Feaster Five Road Race is for the entire family

Organizers of the Feaster Five Road Race expect 5,000 runners will stampede through town streets as part the sixth annual Thanksgiving Day race this year.

In addition to the five-mile race, this year's events will include a five-kilometer run/walk and a children's 1-kilometer fun run. The fun run begins at 8 a.m., 5-kilometer races begins at 8:30 and the 5-mile race begins at 8:38.

Highlights of this year's race include participation by four-time Boston Marathon winner Bill "Boston Billy" Rogers, and Olympic-marathon gold medalist Joan Benoit Samuelson.

In addition to running the race, both marathon greats will conduct a runner's clinic on Wednesday, Nov. 24, from 6-7 p.m., during the Feaster Five Health and Fitness Exposition and race registration from 3-8 p.m. at Brickstone Square that evening.

Both athletes will also be after a share of the $5,200 in prize money being offered this year, and all runners will again receive a long sleeve race sweatshirt and an apple pie, both of which have become tradition in the race.

Change of locale

The start for this year's race was moved from Main Street to Brickstone Square, corporate headquarters of Marshalls, this year's chief sponsor. The race will also finish at Brickstone instead of in front of town offices, as it has in the past. Brickstone is at the corner of York and Haverhill streets.

In addition to the five-mile race, this year's events will include a five-kilometer run/walk and a children's 1-kilometer fun run.

Walkers are welcome. The entry fee is $12. The children's race is free. All proceeds of the race will be donated to Lazarus House homeless shelter in Lawrence. Runners are also encouraged to bring their old running shoes to donate to Lazarus House.

Registration

Registration and number pickup will be at Marshalls office, 200 Brickstone Square, Monday and Tuesday, Nov. 22 and 23, 10 a.m.-7 p.m.; until 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 24; and 7-8 a.m. on race day.

The race is hosted by the Merrimack Valley Striders, Dave McGillvray Sports Enterprises. Call race directors Dave McGillvray, 617-932-9393, or Bill Pennington, 475-5671, for more information.

Runners will again receive a long sleeve race sweatshirt and an apple pie, both of which have become tradition in the race.

What would Thanksgiving be without AHS football

The game has a 10 a.m. kickoff at Veterans Memorial Stadium in Lawrence.

The Golden Warriors enter the contest with a 2-6-1 overall record, and will be trying to play the spoiler against a Central team that is 8-1-0, has won eight straight since a season-opening loss to Billerica, and could earn a share of the Merrimack Valley Conference championship by beating Andover.

"This will be our third straight game against a title contending team," said AHS Head Coach Dick Collins. "We've played two of the league's Big Three (Chelmsford, Billerica) tough the last two weeks. We're getting used to playing this caliber of opposition, and we're going to give it our best shot.

"Central is a terrific team," added Coach Collins. "Matt Cassano (11 touchdown passes) is one of several premiere quarterbacks in the Merrimack Valley Conference this season, and they also have top-notch running backs (Todd Kobelski, Joe Bue, Mike Shannon) and outstanding size up front (including Andover resident Ned Finneran)."

Offensively Andover is led by running backs Toby Guzowski, Dave Jorgenson and sophomore Dana McCann

Tickets to the Thanksgiving Day game will be on sale Nov. 17-22, 9 a.m.-noon and 1-3 p.m. in the Athletic Office, 36 Bartlet St., and in the High School gym on Nov. 23 and 24, 6-8 p.m.

as well as quarterback Jeff Brammer.

The defense has played well all season and the top performers on that side of the ball include linebacker Guzowski, end McCann, tackles Spencer Wendt and Steve Muench, noseguard Mike Dalton and linebacker Peter Daniels.

This is the first time in seven years the Golden Warriors haven't played North Andover on the Saturday before Thanksgiving, so it will be a more rested Andover team that takes the field next Thursday morning.

Central won last year's high-scoring shootout, 35-28, and the Red Raiders have captured five of the last six Thanksgiving games including exciting down-to-the-wire victories in 1991 (17-16), 1989 (16-14) and 1987 (7-0).

Adam Goddess (13), one of three quarterbacks used by the Andover High football team during last year's Thanksgiving Day game, heaves a pass over charging Central Catholic Red Raiders' linemen during the game at Andover's Lovely Field. The Golden Warriors are looking to avenge last year's 35-28 loss, where a frantic second-half comeback bid fell just short, when they meet Central next Thursday at 10 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium in Lawrence.
